

Costly count

School enrollment figures show slight decline

School enrollments in three area school districts last Friday were down slightly, reflecting the trend in most districts in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

The count, taken annually on the fourth Friday of September to determine forthcoming state aid to schools, showed a drop of some 3.3 percent in the public school enrollment in the tri-county area.

In the Van Buren school district, the student population was down to 7,168 from 7,347 last year, a decrease of 179. In Romulus, student enrollment this year went to 5,873, or 94 students fewer than last year's 5,967. A similar situation was evident in Huron school district where last year's enrollment of 2,290 dropped to 2,035 this year.

Only eight of the 86 school districts in the three counties had increases in the school population and most of them were slight.

Being blamed for the downshift in school enrollments are population shifts, an aging population, a declining birth rate, fewer housing starts, and the increase in gasoline prices.

Surprisingly, Detroit showed less of a drop in student population than the suburbs, only about one percent. Public school enrollment in Detroit went from 216,373 last year to 214,069 this year. However, school officials said dual enrollments and other factors could result in possibly another 1,000 student being lopped off the total.

A county breakdown showed student enrollment down 2.7 percent in Wayne, 3.4 percent in Oakland, and 4.7 percent in Macomb.

The declining student enrollment follows a nation-wide pattern that has been in evidence over the last decade due to a decreasing birth rate. With the national birth rate now going up, the trend is expected to reverse itself over the next few years.

Some of the biggest losers in the suburbs are: Livonia - down 7.5 percent; Crestwood - 9 percent; Birmingham - nearly 8 percent;

Lake Shore - 8 percent; Warren Woods - 9 percent; Warren Consolidated - 7 percent; and Royal Oak, West Bloomfield, and Roseville - 6 percent.

In the category of gainers, five school districts showed marked increases. They are: Wood Haven - up 5.6 percent; Plymouth-Canton - 2 percent; Flat Rock - 4.7 percent; Chippewa Valley - 3.5 percent; Novi - 1.4 percent.

Some administrators agree that their districts have about the same number of families, but fewer children in each. A consensus is that today's young couples are not having as many children as their parents did.

The headcount in Huron was termed by school officials there as "preliminary" due to the large number of bus drivers and other non-certified staff members who reported to sick on the day of the enrollment count. Those employees are now involved in a labor dispute which school officials point out is not a strike.

Brickley to address business community

The "State Conference on Small Businesses" will be the topic that James H. Brickley, Lieutenant Governor of the State of Michigan, will discuss at a meeting of the West Suburban Area Council of Chambers.

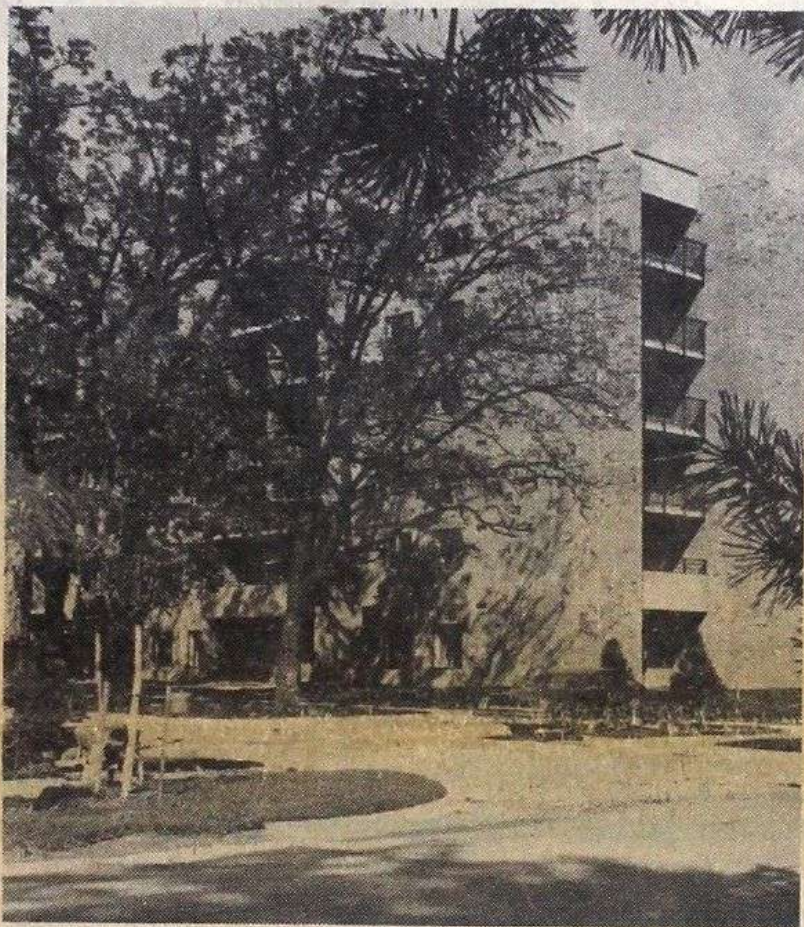

The luncheon will be held from 11:45 a.m., Oct. 15, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 19801 Farmington Rd.

There is a $8 charge. The state is holding several forums and local seminars pertinent to the problems and aspirations of small businesses. The input from these conferences will be relayed to the state via a "State Conference on Small Businesses", which is tentatively scheduled to be held between May 10 through May 14 in Lansing.

A small business is considered one that has 50 or fewer employees. The West Suburban Area of Council of Chambers is a group of chambers made up of Chamber of Commercials from Belleville, Greater Romulus, Canton, Livonia, Wayne, Westland, Farmington, Novi, Plymouth, Redford and Westland.

Brickley's career in public service has extended through all levels of government, municipal, county, state and federal. The native of Flint received his bachelor's and law degrees from the University of Detroit and a masters degree from New York University.

Brickley was first elected Lieutenant Governor with Gov. William G. Milliken in 1970. From 1975 until 1978 he served as President of Eastern Michigan University. In 1978, Brickley was again elected with Milliken.

'Big guns' turn out to debate eviction case

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

It was David versus Goliath last week at a special hearing of the Romulus Housing Commission.

On the one hand representing the city of Romulus and the commission was Charles Lowther, a young attorney working for a legal firm hired by the city.

On the other was William B. Fitzgerald, ex-leader of the Michigan Senate, recent candidate for governor, and member of a prominent Detroit law firm, representing the daughter of a Romulus councilman.

The hearing, the second held to consider eviction of Brenda Raspberry from her apartment unit operated by the Housing Commission in the Wayne-Beverly roads area, seemed lopsided in behalf of the defense.

As he had at the earlier commission meeting, Councilman Jimmie Raspberry made an appearance to make certain that his daughter was accorded due process of law.

But, neighter Raspberry, who was accused by two commission members of "throwing his weight around" nor Fitzgerald, in his stentorian, well-polished phrases, dissuaded the commission from following the dictates of its conscience.

A motion by Noah Bergeron, supported by Oliver Warren, was approved which delayed a decision by the commission on Ms. Raspberry's eviction until an assault and battery charge pending against her in the 34th District Court is resolved.

Complainant in the eviction proceedings and that in court is Mrs. Susanne Hughes who lives next door to Ms. Raspberry. In a letter to the Housing Commission, she accused Ms. Raspberry of threatening her with a tennis racquet in front of witnesses on one occasion, and another time, of standing outside her apartment with a knife and shouting obscenities in efforts to get her to come outside.

Mrs. Hughes' letter stated that on July 10, 1980, Ms. Raspberry's 11-year-old daughter kicked her 21-month-old son and knocked him down when he inadvertently wandered into the Raspberry yard. She said the young girl then kicked her son three more times in the back "until he rolled over to our side".

After picking up her son, her letter stated, she attempted to tell Ms. Raspberry about what her daughter had done. Her letter stated that Ms. Raspberry shouted racial slurs at her and knocked her to the ground with her son in her arms. Ms. Raspberry is black and Mrs. Hughes is white.

Mrs. Hughes in her letter said Ms. (Continued on Page A-3)

Not budgeted

12 CETA employees will be terminated

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Yesterday was the last day of employment for 12 Romulus city employees paid under the CETA program despite last-minute pleas last week to city council by a spokesman for the group and the city clerk.

Although council Tuesday postponed voting on the next year's budget until a special meeting last Thursday night, ostensibly to possibly make arrangements to keep some of the 12 terminated persons, that hope went down the drain.

Thursday night, council approved the 1980-81 budget which Richard Sullivan, finance director, has revised at their direction a week earlier.

However, the budget did not include funds that would keep any of the 12 terminated CETA employees on the city payroll.

As in past years, the budget approval came late. This year, council delayed its approval for almost four and a half months, despite its submittal on time April 1 by Mayor William M. Oakley.

At last Tuesday's council session, Rendell Wooden, an employee in the clerk's office, spoke on behalf of the 12 CETA employees. Speaking about her own case, she said she had worked for the city for 6½ years and that her pending dismissal was "not fair".

She claimed the city waited until the last minute before notifying CETA personnel of a permanent termination.

"I find it very frustrating for the city to take someone off the street to do the job that I have been doing for years," Mrs. Wooden declared.

Councilman Junior Block said it was his understanding that the CETA program was designed to train employees for permanent jobs elsewhere as well as the city.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar said Mrs. Wooden had progressed from her entry level CETA position to several "permanent" ones. He was critical of the policy whereby the city uses money from the general fund that would normally go to pay employees paid under the CETA program for other purposes.

"The city decided to take those dollars out of the general fund and use them for such things as street lights and police protection," explained the clerk.

Folmar claimed the city viewed CETA employees as "different" from other persons on the city payroll.

A comment by Councilman Jimmie Raspberry that council should "trim some fat" off the budget to help out the 12 terminated CETA employees brought a sharp retort from Block.

"We've sat here for months working on the budget," Block said. "We did cut the budget. Now, we're talking about trimming fat."

Block reiterated that it was his interpretation that CETA employees were hired to train.

Recovery plant told to clean up act

Chemical Recovery Systems of Romulus has been ordered by the State Dept. of Natural Resources to complete overdue modifications by Oct. 15, 1980 to correct the Trouton Drain situation or face court action.

Romulus City Council last week accepted and filed a letter dated Sept. 15, 1980 from Robert J. Courchaine, chief, water quality division of the DNR, to Peter Shagena of Chemical Recovery Systems.

Courchaine, in his letter, reminded Shagena that a stipulation and consent judgment May 16 of this year required his company to complete the DNR-approved corrective work to the groundwater intercept tile system by May 1, 1980.

"On July 16, 1980, Roger Schwartz, assistant attorney general, notified your counsel, Mr. Gary J. McInerney, of certain failures of the company to comply with the terms of the consent judgment," his letter stated.

Courchaine stated that McInerney said the construction of the underdrain could not begin until the east pond was completely removed. Further, McInerney stated CRS would begin work on the intercept within 48 hours of the total excavation of the east pond.

Courchaine stated in his letter that the east pond was totally excavated Sept. 3, 1980, but that no work had begun on the groundwater intercept as of Sept. 12, nine days later.

Drawing

Armstrong's "Funland" has been in business for a year and to show its appreciation the management is giving away a black and white portable TV and 10-speed bike to the lucky winners of a drawing.

On hand to select the lucky winners will be Patricia Cullen, supervisor of Van Buren, and Justin Emerson, the Mayor of Belleville. The drawing will be held at 3 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 4 at the store, located at 8787 Belleville Rd.

"We've enjoyed bringing a new form of entertainment to Belleville, Van Buren and the area," an Armstrong employee said, "and this is our way of saying 'thank you' to the many people who have made our first season so enjoyable."

Ex-Belleville resident describes refugee camp life

(Editor's Note—Doyle Tarwater, a former Belleville resident and Belleville High graduate, a University of Minnesota Medical School student, is spending five months at the Nong Khai refugee camp in Thailand, providing medical care to 40,000 Laotian refugees. A native of Ann Arbor, he now makes his home in St. Paul and will be returning to complete his degree and begin his residency in internal medicine in July 1981. The following article was written as a letter to the Minnesota Medical Foundation which has helped finance Doyle's education.)

By DOYLE TARWATER

Along the famed Mekong River, some thousand miles below its Himalayan source, lies Nong Khai. On the opposite shore is a well-equipped army of Pathet Lao, Russians and Vietnamese.

It is a wide river here with a fast current. Those with money hire a boat to cross to freedom. Others must cross upstream where the river is a maze of wadeable channels. My friends, Kong Keo and Keo Manivanh, blew up large plastic sacks for flotation and swam the big river by night. There is, they say, "lots of shooting from the Laotian side."

One night while driving out to do rounds, Dr. Karen Olness (University of Minnesota pediatrics professor and member of the refugee camp medical team) told me a story of the miracle baby, tossed from one wounded and drowning relative to another as the family tried to cross the river. The father was shot nearing the Thai shore and managed to toss the baby to Thai people gathered there watching. The father and baby are all that is left of the family.

Kong Keo tells me of an island in the Mekong between Laos and Cambodia, used to re-educate young people who disobeyed the dress and conduct rules of the new regime, such as wearing blue jeans, long hair, listening to Western music, and being openly affectionate. A knock on your door at night meant only that a father or brother was gone and was never coming back.

When Kong Keo's older brother swam the river to Thailand (and later moved to France where he now lives), the family was deemed reactionary, and he lost a scholarship to study at a university in the Soviet Union. Now, he, too, is a refugee.

Forty-thousand Lao live here (in the refugee camp), many for four and five stagnant years. The bright, the well-educated spend two to six months before going to countries such as the United States for a new home. The United States is the hardest to enter, even with relatives who are residents there.

In these crowded and fetid conditions swarm a legion of dreaded diseases: tuberculosis, cholera, malaria, meningitis, measles, encephalitis, sepsis, renal stones, skin contagions. The list goes on.

Many here have no money and resources whatsoever. Their food ration leaves them only boiled rice and salt to feed their children. They live in totally filthy, crowded squalor, in concrete ovens that accumulate heat all day and radiate all night. Toilets drain into reservoirs. Water comes from highly suspect wells. But just as we cannot do blood cultures in our hospital, we cannot trace outbreaks of the many dreaded diseases.

Much of the camp is a desolation of ashes, broken glass and rubble since the camp fire in February that left 25,000 homeless. "Many people lost a lot of money when the camp burned," explains Kong Keo. The fire started in three places on a windy twilight at Chinese New Year. There were rumors that the Communists and Thais had plenty of reason to make the camp less attractive to others wanting to come.

This is not the Cambodian border, a far larger and more desperate reality. Thais say the Lao refugees have vastly better care in the camp than do families of Thai farmers in the wetlands extending away from the Mekong. After three years of drought in the clay hills of northeast Thailand, many Thais have little or no rice. Therefore, the refugees have a far easier life now and a much better future life prospect assured for some.

The United Nations official food rations pass through many hands before reaching the destitute refugees. The expectation in a land of well-publicized public corruption is that everyone takes. The gentle, loving Lao say, "it would not be polite to criticize a country kind enough to take us in." So our poor refugees would have only rice but for the help of agencies such as Food For The Hungry and Catholic Relief Services.

There are two long, low wooden buildings with tin roofs, built by Norwegian Church Aid. They house the hospital, outpatient and ancillary lab, pharmacy and treatment room. X-ray is built but not wired.

We're generally swamped on all fronts by the claims of the sick. We lack supplies. Critical equipment is found inexplicably locked up. Key staff often disappear. We press on through awesome heat and shattering rains, the screams of infants, crowds jostling to get in earlier to see the doctor, bewildering pathology to investigate, ponder and treat. All the children need vitamins. This is truly a terrible, crowded place where parents see their children dying.

The children suffer on hot days, sitting under a bare, tin roof waiting to be seen in the clinic. Although we ask that the sickest be sent in without delay, they often must wait. Nearly every day the admissions begin at 5 a.m. They are miserable, and starved. Children cling to their mothers and cry fitfully when they're touched.

For the medical student, it is a challenge to make the decisions and do what needs to be done when everyone else has gone home. Inevitably, the professional self emerges with the tenacity to investigate, to stay just a bit longer.

I carry a well-stocked bag of instruments and drugs. Most useful are antibiotics and the occasional Bicillin injection.

We see some progress. We use refeeding protocols for the severely malnourished, giving increasing strengths of milk and high-energy formula. After one year of age, when a child goes from a mother's breast to protein impoverished rice diet, a mild diarrhea can precipitate crashing Kwashiorkor. Most of these children are being saved now.

The hospital is cleaner, not so many deaths. Despite long days, daily disasters, few tools and linguistic havoc, quality medical care is being delivered here.

The skills of physical diagnosis are honed and I am blessed by the knowledge of my consultants. It is this medical student's best rotation.

Pets and Animals

It is easier for an owner to decide to have a female spayed, then to decide to have a male castrated. There seems to be a psychological resistance to having cats or dogs castrated. One male can be responsible for many more litters of puppies than one female.

There are several reasons for the castration. The surgery generally makes a better pet out of him. He will be generally less aggressive and more mild mannered. He will be less likely to jump over a fence and chase after a female.

Male cats will be less likely to roam and get into fights. Both dogs and cats will be less likely to mark their territory by urinating in the house. Male cats develop a strong odor to their urine as they mature. Castration helps eliminate that odor.

The earliest a cat or dog can be castrated is between 6-9 months of age. The pet is placed (Continued on Page A-4)

Auction

More than 250 people showed up for last Saturday's combined City-School auction sale held at Fire Station No. 1, and before the day was over had purchased 300 separate items for approximately $10,000. The sale, a joint effort of the City-School Committee, is the second such public auction in two years and was rated an outstanding success by

YWCA to present noted sexual dysfunction therapists

The YWCA of Western Wayne County presents Drs. Marguerite and Marshall Shearer, noted therapists of sexual dysfunction and psychiatry, as the Town Hall speakers on Wednesday, October 29. A cash bar reception at the Fairlane Manor, 19000 Hubbard, will be held at 11:00 a.m. prior to the luncheon and celebrity speakers at noon.

The Shearers are well-known for their syndicated newspaper column dealing with sexual and marital difficulties. With impressive individual backgrounds in psychiatry and general medicine, they joined professionally in private practice in 1972, three years later they joined in marriage. Since that time, they have written numerous publications together and lectured before medical and lay groups.

Tickets for the lecture and luncheon are $12.00 per person. To obtain, mail a check and a self-addressed and stamped envelope to the YWCA, 26279 Michigan Avenue, Inkster, Michigan 48141.

Tables for parties (10 to a table) will be assigned in order of receipt. However, requests to be seated with friends must be submitted together.

Free child care for mothers of tots aged eight months and up will be available at the YWCA. Advanced registration is necessary. For further information, call 561-4110.

Chemical plant ordered to complete modifications work immediately on the intercept correction program and be completed within 30 days.

Courchaine's letter warned: "Failure to comply with this directive will leave the department no alternative but to refer this matter to the attorney general for appropriate action through the Wayne County Circuit Court."

Investigation by the DNR showed that CRS operations were to blame for contamination of the soil near the plant and for odors emanating from nearby Trouton Drain, long a nuisance to area residents.

In other business, Clerk Leonard J. Folmar informed council that two local propositions had been approved by the state and submitted to the county for submission on the ballot at the Nov. 4 general election.

Proposition A will seek voter direction on whether the city should amend the city charter to increase terms of office for all city elected officials from two to four years effective November 1981.

Proposition B will ask voters whether the city should adopt an ordinance to establish a civil service program for non-supervisory city employees.

Folmar said the city charter provides that the civil service proposition must be presented to voters a total of three times before it is considered a dead issue.

Romulus voters did turn it down in 1972, making its appearance on the ballot next November the second time for voter consideration.

Council also was informed by Mayor William M. Oakley that David Paul, DPW director, has resubmitted paperwork to the Wayne County Road Commission for a traffic signal at Wayne and Grant roads.

Paul told the mayor that evidently the commission had lost or misplaced the correspondence he sent earlier.

The city will pay one-fourth of the cost of the traffic signal, about $2,100 and will pay one-fourth of energy and maintenance costs thereafter, the commission told Paul.

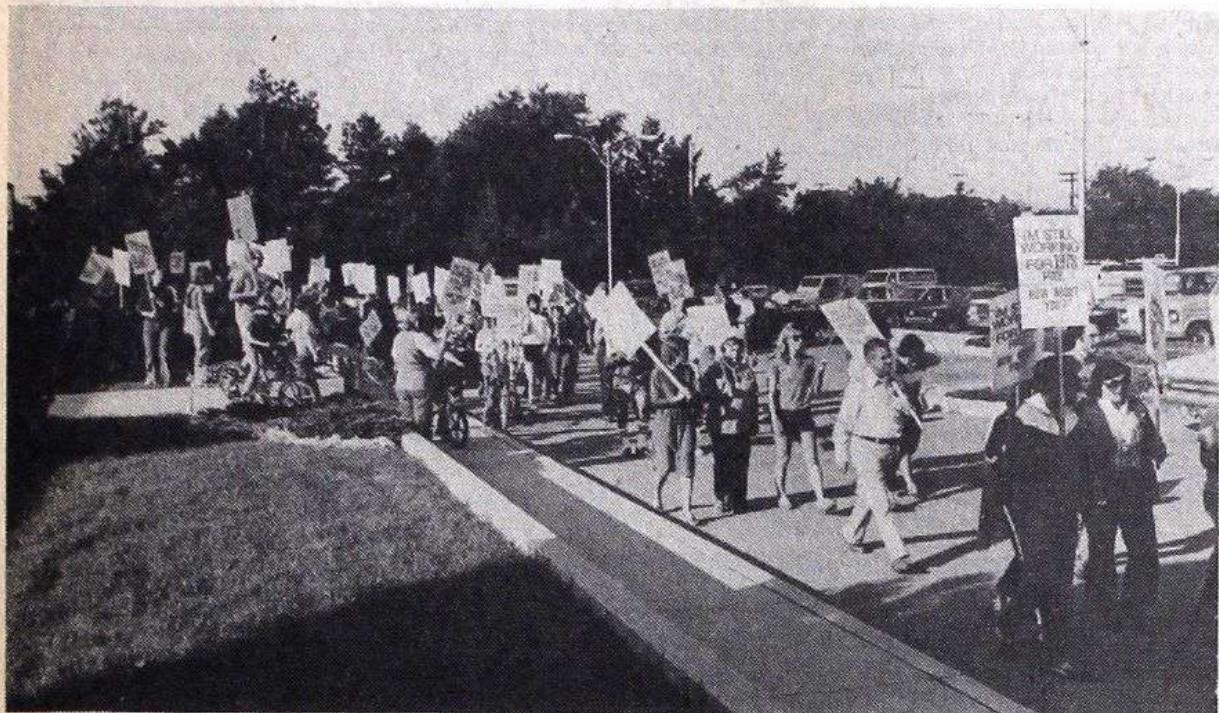

The Wayne, Grant intersection has been the scene of numerous traffic accidents.

Van Buren teachers picket for contract

Van Buren school district teachers last Wednesday picketed the school administration building in protest of an impasse reached in contract negotiations with the school board. Local teachers have worked without a new contract since Aug. 31, 1979 and are working this school year under a mutually-agreed upon extension of the old contract. The teachers union recently warned that a strike in the Van Buren school district was a possibility. (ANP photo.)

Huron junior is running for top education honors

Sarah Renton, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Renton, 27568 River Lane, has been selected by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation as a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

Sarah, a senior at Huron High School, garnered her ranking in the top one half of one percent of the state's high school senior scholars by competing in the preliminary scholastic aptitude test and the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test in 1979.

As a semi-finalist, Sarah will be honored publicly and will be eligible to enter the finalist competition. She will be competing for one of 4,500 merit scholarships to be awarded nationwide next spring. Her scholastic competence identifies her as a top scholar to colleges and universities, and increases her educational opportunities upon graduation from Huron High School.

To be selected as a finalist, Sarah will face a subjective selection process in which her academic record, self description, achievements outside the classroom, two sets of aptitude test scores, and the high school principal's recommendation will be evaluated.

Winners of a National Merit $1,000 Scholarship will be the finalists in each state who are judged by the selection committee to best combine abilities and personal qualities needed for success during and after college.

The name of the Merit Scholarship winners will be released by National Merit Scholarship Corporation next April.

Whitehouse is honored

Dave Whitehouse was presented with a plaque at the September Huron Athletic Booster Club meeting. The plaque was for recognition of his many years of dedicated service as president.

12 CETA workers let go in Romulus

"I don't know where the fat is!" commented Block.

Joseph Erickson, one of the terminated employees, explained that after 18 months on the job, he was told that "insufficient funds" prevented him from being switched over to a permanent position.

"Why have other CETA employees with less experience than me been moved to permanent jobs?" Erickson asked.

Folmar told council that because CETA funding policies had changed, the employees were being let go. He blamed department heads who did not budget CETA personnel and use of CETA funds for other purposes.

Councilman Ed Rush suggested a special meeting, even later that same night, to study ways to help out the 12 CETA employees. Council agreed to meet last Thursday night.

Patrick Hogan, community development director, told council and the audience that all CETA programs were limited to 18 months duration and that it had been possible to get waivers in recent years for extension of employment.

Although last year, CETA granted a year's extension to city employees under its program, the same situation does not hold true this year, he said.

Prior to April 1, 1978, no 18-month limitation was in effect, Hogan had explained in an earlier news story. The restriction did not come about until after that date, and all CETA employees were told in the fall of 1978 that they would be terminated as of Sept. 30, 1979.

But, CETA funding has dried up, he said, and no new waivers are looked for this year as happened a year ago.

'Big guns' show up for eviction hearing

Raspberry continued cursing her, but that she (Mrs. Hughes) told her she wouldn't fight and went home to call the sheriff and await the return of her husband.

In her letter, Mrs. Hughes said she filed a complaint with the sheriff's office charging Ms. Raspberry with assault and battery.

Mrs. Hughes asked the commission for its cooperation to correct the situation and stated that she planned "to pursue this matter through the court ..."

Mrs. Hughes also charged in her letter that Ms. Raspberry had been convicted of assault and battery on a previous occasion and had been placed on probation.

The 34th District Court confirmed that Ms. Raspberry had been on probation resulting from an assault and battery charge in 1974. The court clerk, Eleanor Tanner, said the pending charge filed by Mrs. Hughes has not been scheduled because the court had requested the state Supreme Court to have the trial held in another district court other than Romulus. Mrs. Tanner said this was normal procedure in these cases since both local judges had disqualified themselves from hearing the matter.

During the commission hearing Wednesday afternoon, which was open to the public, several comments about the presence of the "press" were made by Raspberry, Fitzgerald and Mrs. Theresa Washington, a commission member.

In his remarks to the commission, Fitzgerald said his client, Ms. Raspberry, had told him she "had not always acted right" and would try to be a better neighbor in the future. He said his client would apologize for her actions and would hope for one from Mrs. Hughes.

Fitzgerald said he hoped the matter between the two women could be resolved that day in an amicable manner and that both women should be made aware of the regulations imposed by the commission on tenants in the housing development.

Later in the hearing, he suggested that if the two women could not get along that they should be moved to different units farther apart in the housing complex.

Fitzgerald's contention that Ms. Raspberry was entitled to a hearing and due process by the commission was challenged by Bergeron. Bergeron claimed the commission's bylaws permitted eviction of a tenant without a hearing by the tenant before that body.

Bergeron was supported by the city attorney, Lowther. He said that in this situation as full hearing by the commission was not justified.

In his comments, Warren said he was "surprised" when he heard about Mrs. Hughes' charges against Ms. Raspberry in view of her "top reputation."

Bergeron said he was upset that the commission had been accused of acting wrongly and because Councilman Raspberry had "chastised this commission" for denying his daughter due process.

He claimed that the residents of all 101 units in the housing development would lose respect for the commission if it let the councilman "throw his weight around."

Fitzgerald reminded the commission that he had sent a letter requesting the commission to grant his client "the normal grievance procedure."

Bergeron responded that the attorney's letter had little significance for him after Raspberry had appeared at the first commission hearing and read them the riot act.

"Your letter didn't carry any weight that night in view of the pressure by Mr. Raspberry," declared Bergeron.

Mrs. Washington said the councilman came to the commission meeting "as a father" and that she knew he did not condone his daughter's actions. She said she abstained from voting then and would do so in the future because she knew both Ms. Raspberry and Mrs. Hughes.

Another commission member, Hugh Hurlburt, said he had known Ms. Raspberry since she was a child, but added that anyone who used obscene language and made trouble became "undesirable."

He also charged Raspberry with interfering during the earlier commission hearing. "Mr. Raspberry did throw his weight around. He shouldn't ought to."

Hurlburt said the Councilman had badgered persons on the commission who were appointed to their positions, a different story from his own office as an elected official.

Raspberry defended his coming because Ms. Raspberry was his daughter. He reminded the commission that he had been in office for 24 years and that he did not want to get personally involved in the dispute.

The councilman said his main purpose in attending the hearings was to see that his daughter received due process at a hearing before the commission.

"I came to the hearing as a citizen," he declared. "I didn't go to the newspaper like someone who got them here today."

Hurlburt said that at the first commission hearing that Raspberry had reminded commission members that they were appointed to their jobs and that he had helped some of them get their positions.

Zeffie Beanum, commission chairman, explained that Ms. Raspberry had never asked for a hearing, but instead had consulted an attorney.

"She blew it out of hand," declared Mrs. Beanum.

Fitzgerald said he was sorry that Mrs. Hughes had chosen not to appear at the hearing, so testimony could be heard from both sides. Since the complainant had not come to the hearing, he had decided to speak for his client, adding that he believed the dispute was "solvable."

Warren said, "I hate to see it get to the point where both sides sought legal counsel and our bylaws couldn't resolve the matter."

He said the situation was the first time that a hearing was needed to evict a tenant, and which had legal counsel and a city councilman present.

Warren commented that he was made to feel like an "adolescent" in an issue that happens every day across the nation.

Mrs. Washington charged that the Romulus Roman has never been to a Housing Commission meeting before and would not be there now if Councilman Raspberry was not involved.

To that, Fitzgerald retorted, "He (the reporter) knows that. He's here to sell newspapers!"

At the conclusion of the hearing, Fitzgerald said Mrs. Hughes' letter was "unsubstantiated", but that he would not contest it, being only interested in working the matter out.

Warren concluded his remarks by saying, "The commission feels like we were dominated by people in high places."

In earlier discussion, Bergeron accused Fitzgerald of using the word "senator" when introducing himself in a telephone call to Christine Anderson, commission director.

Incensed, Fitzgerald told Bergeron that he had better have proof of that accusation and implied serious consequences could result if he persisted in the charge.

Tax rate appeal rejected by state

Appeals by Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron townships of a county-imposed multiplication factor that would result in increased property taxes were turned down last week by the state Tax Tribunal.

Earlier this year, Wayne County set new factors for the three townships and other communities after studying recent sales of residential properties in their areas.

The multiplication factor is designed to bring the state equalized value (SEV) of residential property up to 50 percent of fair market value. Once that is done, local millage is levied against that figure.

New tentative multiplication factors announced by the county were 2.78 for Van Buren, up from 2.40 last year; 1.46 for Sumpter, up from 1.33 last year; and 1.19 for Huron, up from 1.00 last year.

According to the Tax Tribunal, the townships in their appeal of the higher rates have not shown that they were being discriminated against.

Word was received from the taxing body by telephone last week and will be verified in writing in a few days. Once the written order is received, the townships will have 20 days to decide whether to appeal the decision.

Application of the multiplication factor is done in the following way: If a house and land are assessed at $20,000 on the local tax rolls, for example, that figure is multiplied by 2.78 (new factor) to bring it up to a new assessment of $55,600. This latter amount is theoretically half of the fair market value of the house and land. The $55,600 is then multiplied by the amount of local millage levied to arrive at taxes owed by the owner.

The multiplication factor supposedly compensates for the differences in value of property from one area to another.

The larger new multiplication factors imposed for 1980 are reported to reflect the rapid appreciation in property values during the 1978-79 real estate boom.

Seniors to tour Las Vegas

The Romulus Recreation Department is sponsoring a fun-filled trip to the entertainment capital of the world — Las Vegas, Nevada.

The four day, three night event will depart from Romulus on Thursday, Oct. 30 and return on Sunday, Nov. 2. The price of $349 per person includes round trip non-stop air fare, transportation to and from the hotel, baggage transfers and accommodations at the newly-renovated Silver Bird Hotel. (formerly known as the Thunderbird), located right on the strip.

This trip is open to anyone who is interested.

The Recreation Department's fall programs will be starting the first of October. For adults, the department will be offering football, basketball, floor hockey, volleyball, karate, dancercise, archery, racquetball, dried flower arranging, ceramics and open recreation.

Children will be able to participate in basketball, volleyball, karate, bowling, ballet and open recreation. Rollerskating will continue at the Mayflower Roller Rink. Senior Citizens will enjoy dried flower arranging, ceramics, macarame, dancercise, bowling, decoupage, bingo and trips.

Over eastern U.S.

Wallpe named DEA regional manager

A spokesman for Digital Electronic Automation, Inc., Romulus, has announced the appointment of Paul Wallpe to Eastern U.S. Regional Manager. He will be responsible for the total sales and marketing operations for the eastern United States.

Wallpe's background includes sales management and engineering experience in the coordinate measuring and machine tool industries. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati where he received his B.S. in industrial management and M.B.A. in marketing and finance.

DEA specializes in 3-dimensional measuring systems producing a wide range of sizes and capabilities designed to meet the growing need for coordinate measuring products. Over 55 standard measuring machine models are available from the small 26" x 18" x 14" Cantilever style to the giant 630" x 250" x 160" Gantry configuration.

Digital Electronic Automation, Inc. is located at 36310 Ecorse Rd.

Focus on photography

On light and film

We know that the emulsion of film is composed of tiny silver halide crystals which are suspended in gelatin. We also know that these crystals undergo a chemical change when they are exposed to light.

To produce a visible image in the exposed film we must use a developer. This is, I think, the most interesting of the steps from a latent image to a visible image. The development of the negative is a key factor in the ultimate production of the photographic print and the success of this step determines the quality and disposition of the final print.

Just what chemical change takes place when the silver halide is exposed to light isn't exactly known. There must be some change, however, because when the film is placed in developer, the developer acts upon the exposed crystals, which frees the silver from the halide. Normally it does not effect the unexposed crystals.

The liberated silver is in a metallic form and is deposited in minute irregular grains. This metallic silver will stop a certain amount of light transmitted by the negative, depending on the concentration of the deposit. Naturally, a heavier deposit will transmit less light and make that portion of the negative darker or more opaque.

We know now that when light hits the unexposed film and is submitted to the chemical action of a developer the silver halide crystals in the emulsion turn into black grains of silver.

While the exposed crystals are being changed to metallic silver, the unexposed crystals remain unaffected. With the completion of proper development, no metallic silver will be formed in the exposed area and consequently the film will be transparent in these regions. However, if development is carried well beyond a normal stage, the developer will begin to attack the unexposed halides as well. This will result in a darkening of what should be transparent areas and we term the condition "developer fog."

The intermediate graduation or opacities between extreme highlight and shadow are controlled by the intensity of light incident on the film during the exposure.

The intensity of light will determine the depth to which it will penetrate the emulsion and the consequent number of silver halide crystals it will expose.

After development, the resulting metallic silver produced will be concentrated according to the original intensities of light incident upon the film. That is, an area exposed by intense light will contain more metallic silver than one exposed by less intense light.

By DON GREEN

Next week we'll talk about the developer and its part in the final print.

Pets and Animals

under an anesthetic and the hairs on the scrotum and surrounding areas are removed.

In the cat, two incisions are made in the scrotum. One testicle is withdrawn from each incision. The blood vessels are tied off and the testicles are removed. The cat is then placed on an antibiotic and awakened from the anesthetic.

In the dog, one incision is made just in front of the scrotum. Both testicles are withdrawn through this incision, one at a time. The blood vessels are tied and the testicles removed. The incision is sutured closed. The dog is placed on an antibiotic and awakened.

The levels of testosterone decrease over the next few weeks. This explains why immediate changes cannot be expected with a castration. Without normal testosterone levels, behavior changes to occur along with a redistribution of fat. More fat is deposited under the skin.

Castration should be done to make a better pet and to help decrease the over population of dogs and cats.

Childhood burns are preventable

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Burns, even minor ones, are painful, but more painful are statistics from the National Institute for Burn Medicine, which shows that more than 50 percent of burn accidents to infants could have been prevented and that a majority of burns sustained by 1- and 2-year-olds were caused by scalds.

When you consider a child that young with severe burns faces disfigurement or possibly death, that's when you realize the tragedy of it all ... Most could have been prevented.

And that is one of the tasks the National Institute for Burn Medicine in Ann Arbor has targeted as a goal. The institute was founded in 1968 and has two goals — to improve burn care and treatment through research and teaching and to reduce the number of burn injuries through prevention efforts.

According to Michael James, director of program development for the institute, the State of Michigan records 100,000 burn cases, which require medical attention, each year. Of that number 3,200 persons are admitted to hospitals for special care, and 400 die from their injuries.

A health care support organization similar to the American Cancer Society or American Kidney Foundation, the burn institute works with 235 hospitals throughout the state to improve burn care. It sponsors educational programs for health care professionals, sponsors and carries out research and conducts burn awareness and prevention activities in cooperation with state and local civic organizations, such as the Jaycees and Jayettes.

To that end, James said, the institute has set up a priority project for 1980-82 — the establishment of a Center for Excellence for Burn Medicine. The facility will be built on the University of Michigan's medical campus and will include 30 patient beds, an outpatient clinic, and educational and research facilities.

The center would be the most complete facility of its kind in the United States and the world. It would be the place where the "critically injured burned" patients from throughout Michigan and the Midwest would be treated.

The facility will cost $16.5 million to construct, and the burn institute is working with the University of Michigan to raise the necessary funding.

The center, James estimated, will be able to treat 500 patients a year, but sadly, 40 percent of those patients will be children, many of which are injured in preventable accidents.

October has been designated as Burn Awareness Month in the State of Michigan, and with that in mind, the institute is providing a pamphlet on preventing burn injuries among youngsters 1 and 2 years old.

"Most burn injuries can be prevented, if people are aware of the typical way most injuries occur," James said. "Most burn injuries occur at home ... Most are children."

"In fact, the single largest group are those toddlers and infants under 3 years of age."

The pamphlet points out the three areas in the home — the kitchen, bedroom and bathroom — where burns are likely to occur and provides tips on how to prevent injuries ... Tips like not leaving the cords to electrical cooking appliances dangling ... Tips like not placing a child in a tub of water until you've checked the water temperature ... Tips like not leaving a vaporizer near a crib or bed where it might be tipped over or pulled out.

But it doesn't stop there. There are four recommendations for first aid for burns. If a burn does occur:

(1) Stop the damage. When a scald burn occurs, flood with cold tap water and remove clothing carefully.

(2) If the burn area is large, wrap the child in a clean sheet or towel and go immediately to the nearest hospital emergency room.

(3) If the burn area is small, wash with cool water and soap. Do not use ice. Apply a bland ointment, such as petrolatum to reduce pain. Cover with a sterile gauze bandage.

(4) If you have any doubt about what to do, call your family doctor or nearest hospital emergency room and ask for advice.

It also provides recommendations on later care for minor burns — cleansing once or twice a day with soap and water and covering with a bland ointment and sterile dressing; not breaking the blisters (if they do break, remove loose skin carefully), and watching for signs of inflammation — redness, pain, heat or swelling.

October is Burn Awareness Month, and naturally, it would make the staff at the burn institute happy to see a dramatic decrease in the number of burn cases in the state. They know burns are tragic, and they know it is even more tragic when those burns happen to a child as a result of a situation that could have been prevented.

Romulus fire protection rating is upgraded

New classification will result in decrease insurance rates

Fulfilling a pledge made a year ago, Mayor William M. Oakley announced yesterday that the City of Romulus fire protection rating has been upgraded from a class 8 or 9 to 6 by the Insurance Services Office of Michigan, (ISO).

The reevaluation is the result of a week-long series of tests conducted in July, 1979 by the ISO, which included water flow tests, fire engine pumping capacities, complete inventory of fire fighting equipment, machines and manpower and a log of all fires in the city for the past year and the response time by the Romulus Fire Department.

The ISO is an independent non-profit rating service whose information is utilized by insurance companies when determining insurance rates.

In a letter to Mayor Oakley, Harry Westhaus, supervisor of public protection for ISO, said, "The new classification will result in a decrease in the fire insurance rates for many insured commercial properties within the city, effective September 1, 1980."

However, he cautioned that some insurance companies do not follow ISO's suggested rate schedule and therefore may not alter policy holder's premiums.

Residential properties will probably not be affected, Westhaus continued, because statistics show there is no substantial difference in fire protection between classes 1-8.

Mayor Oakley suggested, however, that all residents check with their respective insurance companies to insure their underwriters have up-to-date information.

"There is a possibility of some lowered rates for homeowners," the mayor said, "since some areas of our city were previously rated 9."

Fire Chief John Wilhide said the higher classification validates what many Romulus residents and firefighters have known for some time, "That the Romulus Volunteer Fire Department is one of the finest in the area."

It took more than a year for the ISO to complete its findings, with the help of several letters from Senate Majority Leader William Faust's office.

Romulus now ranks equal to or better than many of its neighbors. In 1979, Belleville was classed 7, Huron Township - 8, Inkster, 6, Sumpter - 8, Van Buren Township - 8 and Taylor and Wayne - 5.

For commercial properties in Romulus, the degree of lowered insurance rates will depend upon such factors as type of building construction, the hazard of occupancy private protection services and other rating factors.

The overall effect will probably be minus 7.6 percent for wood frame buildings, minus 16 percent for masonry buildings and minus 5.6 percent for fire-resistive buildings.

A complete copy of the ISO survey is available in the Romulus Public Information Office for residents to view.

One of the crucial tests conducted by the ISO in last year's survey of the Romulus Fire Department, was a fire engine pumping capacity test, shown being conducted by members of the fire department under the watchful eye of ISO field rating representative Arthur Baldyga (right). The result of the testing is a fire protection rating improvement of two points which will mean fire insurance rates will go down for some Romulus commercial and business establishments. Belleville church to get new pastor

Pastor Snyman succeeds Norman Yeager

A. Royce Snyman has just arrived in Belleville to take up his new duties as pastor of the Belleville Seventh-day Adventist Church, 105 Liberty Street. His responsibilities also include pastoring the Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Pastor Snyman succeeds Norman

Yeager, who is now pastoring a church in Melvindale.

Pastor Snyman was born in Boulder, Colorado. Three years later his parents and he left for Africa to serve as missionaries. They spent nearly six years in South Africa and Kenya before returning to the Los Angeles area.

Pastor Snyman continued his education there, completing high school in 1971. In 1977, he received his B.A. with a major in theology and minor in Biblical Languages from Pacific Union College of Angwin, CA.

After graduating from college, Pastor Snyman became the assistant pastor of the Pontiac Seventh-day Adventist Church. He served there for one year 1977-1978. Returning to school for two years, he earned a Master of Divinity degree from Andrews University Theological Seminary in August of 1980.

Mrs. Snyman, the former Laurie Denski, was raised in Plymouth. Her parents, the Henry Denski's still live in Plymouth.

PAM THUM

Tri-City Assembly will host local gospel singer

The Tri-City Assembly of God is hosting Pam Thum of Belleville on Sunday, October 5th at 1:00 p.m.

Reverend E. W. Raimier is the Pastor, and the church is located at 2100 Hannan Road, just South of Palmer Road.

Pam is one of the most refreshing new artists in gospel music today. Many people often wonder what it is that makes an artist stand apart from all the others.

For Pam Thum, it's not just her unique style, her crystal-clear voice, or her powerful way of presenting a program.

In the Christian music field, listeners can discern and sense a genuineness that they can identify with a sincere sharing of one's joy and hope in the Lord. It is in this realm that Pam Thum desires to be a totally yielded vessel, and is what sets her apart from all others.

This is what listeners have liked about Pam's ministry, causing her to become one of the best-loved gospel singers today.

When Pam is invited by a gathering to minister, she is invited back, again and again.

Pam grew up in the environs of a travelling Evangelist's family. Of Cherokee heritage, Pam's father was given the honorary Indian name, Charing Bear, and Pam was titled "Princess Shining Star."

Beginning to sing from the time she learned to talk, she made her first record at the ripe old age of three. She travelled and sang with her family until the time she left to attend college. While studying, she was offered a recording contract with Shalom Records.

In the three years that have passed since then, she has recorded two albums, "Bless This Day" and "I Love You".

"Bless This Day" was number one on the gospel charts in Nashville, Tenn. Appearing throughout the United States, Europe and Canada, she has worked with numerous popular Christian artists, such as Dave Boyer, Andrae Crouch, Doug Oldham, and B.J. Thomas.

Pam is featured at many major denominational conventions, major Jesus Festivals throughout the country, and is a favorite on the 700 Club and PTL Club. She recently co-hosted a Canadian Christian TV Talk Show, "100 Huntley St." and will again this May.

Pam has sung at the Cathedral of Tomorrow in Akron, Ohio where the Rev. Rex Humbard is the Pastor, and host of the world-wide telecast. He said, Pam's dedication to the lord was obvious even at a very early age as her countenance radiated the meaning of each song she sang."

Another recent experience for Pam and highlights of her career was a South African tour, during which 450 people came to know Christ through her ministry.

Pam looks forward with excitement to a future that holds many good things in store for her. She is working on a new album, soon to be released by a major record label.

She just finished writing a new song, "Ordinary Girl" and already it has been accepted for the theme song of the New Ann Kiemel Movie soon to be released.

Pam continues to hold strong convictions about her opportunity to minister and share her joy and faith with others.

"All I want to do is spread the Word and the best way I can — by singing in my own style."

There are so many people who believe in Jesus as a distant friend, but not as a personal Saviour. It's like holding out my hand to you with fifty dollars and saying "Would you like money money?" and your saying, "yes, please", and yet not reaching out your own hand to take the money."

As Pam says "I am only one but I am one. I cannot do everything but I can do something. What I can do, I ought to do, and What I ought to do, By the Grace of God I will do".

You will enjoy Pam's singing, but most important you will be ministered to!

Pastor E. W. Raimier invites the public to attend this special service.

200th Sunday School fete set

The Westland Church of God, 35212 Melton, Westland, is planning special services to celebrate the 200th Birthday of the Sunday School on October 5th.

Sunday School will begin at 10 a.m.

There will be a special Morning Worship Service conducted by the Pastor Rev. W. A. Cordell.

A Pot Luck Dinner will follow.

At 2 p.m., a special singing will begin, featuring "The Davis Family" from Battle Creek, and Calvary's Children from Farmington Hills.

The Guest Speaker will be Rev. Hurley, pastor of the Farmington Hills Church of God. The Public is invited to attend.

Our armed forces

They're poised for action

Airman Sharon J. Stefanski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stefanski of 15416 Colbert, Romulus, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force avionics navigation systems course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Graduates of the course were taught basic navigation, maintenance of radio and radar avionics navigation systems, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Stefanski will now serve at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam.

Airman Jeffrey L. Jett, nephew of Q.L. Allen of 20380 Wilmot, Belleville, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

Pvt. Thomas L. Cooner, whose wife, Janet, lives in New Boston, recently completed the Concrete and Asphalt Equipment Operator course at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During the course, students were trained to operate the concrete mobile mixer truck and assist the plant equipment operator in operation of equipment and machines used in asphalt production and paving.

They also learned to assist in the performance of combat engineer equipment.

Cooner completed the course with honors.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Estil E. Tackett, live in Taylor.

Pvt. Rodney G. Gorham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Gorham, Wahrman Road, New Boston, recently was assigned as a rifleman with the 19th Infantry at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

Pvt. Rebecca S. Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon F. Thomas, 41485 Savage, Belleville, is attending basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Pvt. Christopher A. Woods, son of Mrs. Edie Y. Woods, 49080 Denton Road, Belleville, is attending basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Woods' father, Walter Woods Jr., lives at 81495 Green, Chicago, Ill.

Pvt. Norman E. Rushlow Jr., whose parents live at 11012 Van Buren, Belleville, recently completed training as an armor crewman under the One Station Unit Training (OSUT) Program at the U.S. Army Armor School, Fort Knox, Ky.

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic combat training with advanced individual training.

During the training, students learn the duties of a tank crewman, including the firing of the tank's armament and small weapons. They also receive instruction in field radio operations, map reading and tank maintenance and repair.

Pvt. Timothy C. Dowdy, son of Mrs. Donna Painter, 14412 Cogswell, Romulus, recently completed One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Set Christmas parade date

LEONA VANBUHLER
Executive Secretary
Belleville-Van Buren
Chamber of Commerce

Chamber Board has set the date of Saturday, Dec. 6, for annual Christmas parade. The Chamber would like to emphasize "shop at home" promotion for the upcoming Christmas season for local shopping areas.

Small Business Loans: SBA has approved disaster declaration for Wayne County and other areas on basis of July 16 storm damage. Home owners loans are available at three percent while Business loans are as low as five percent.

Application are available at Detroit SBA office. Phone 226-6075 - 12th Floor Book Building - for further information. Filing deadline October 14.

The West Suburban Area Council of Chambers which includes Belleville, Canton, Farmington, Romulus, Livonia, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Redford Township, Wayne and Westland is sponsoring a luncheon on Wed. Oct. 15. There is a cash bar at 11:45 a.m. - luncheon 12:15 p.m., K of C Hall, 19801 Farmington Road (just south of 8 Mile Road). Cost is $8.00 per person.

Lt. Governor James Brickley is scheduled to address the group on the Michigan Conference on Small Business which will be held in Lansing in May, 1981.

You won't want to miss this event, so make your reservations early!

Tickets can be purchased at the Chamber office on or before October 7th. Small Business Management Seminars, especially designed to help small businesses, during current economic times, will be held at Schoolcraft College, Henry Ford Community College and Wayne Community College beginning in October.

The seminars are: Developing Your Business, Introductory Record-keeping, Financial Control, Advertising and Marketing Your Business, Forecasting Business Needs. Cost $30 for each seminar.

More information can be obtained by calling the Chamber office.

Did you know that the tourist dollar goes first to a small group of businesses (motels, restaurants, etc.) which then feeds it to a larger group (distributors and suppliers, etc.) which in turn spreads it out among a still larger group of business and government?

Everyone can gain from promoting his community. One sure way to help promote your community is through the Chamber of Commerce, if you are not a member - join now.

"IF YOU'RE NOT BUYING
BOB EVANS SAUSAGE, YOU MIGHT BE GETTING JUST LEFTOVERS"

Some sausage makers don't put the best cuts of pork into their sausage like we do at Bob Evans Farms.

They take the hams, and sell them as ham. They take the loins, and sell them as pork chops. Then they make sausage with what's left over - the pork trimmings.

Well at Bob Evans Farms, we don't settle for just leftovers. In fact, we include all the choice fresh hams and tenderloins in every pound of sausage we make.

That's why Bob Evans Sausage is tastier than a lot of other sausage. And why it cooks up plump and tender every time.

So try Bob Evans Farms Sausage.

It's so meaty and delicious, you'll never have leftovers again.

Editorial opinions

Welcome, Mr. President!

Mr. President, welcome to Wayne, Romulus and western Wayne county.

You are the first President of the United States to honor our area. We welcome you, Jimmy Carter, and hope that you learn what we already know — we are people who love our country, honor our President and, in the past, fought and died on his command.

But as we honor you today as our President, we must also tell you of our concerns.

This is the winter of our discontent and we believe that you, Mr. President, have helped bring this about.

Your awesome office has cast a spectre over the auto industry that has forced more than 250,000 auto workers out of work.

As you tour the Wayne Assembly Plant, we hope you don't forget that those who greet you with smiling faces are the fortunate ones — the ones who have survived what some economists say is the worst recession since the Great Depression.

And some hold the name Carter synonymous with Hoover.

The disarray that the economic community is in, the vulnerability of American industry, with little hope that there will be changes in the nearest future, makes many of us wonder if, to use the cliché, "it isn't time for a change."

• Maybe Gov. Reagan or Rep. John Anderson may have the remedies for our problems. As one out-of-worker put it: "Why should I vote for Carter? He's put me out of work."

The popularity polls show you, Mr. President, trailing Reagan, but an incumbent President, as history has proven, rarely loses an election. The possibility of your victory is greater now than it was a few months ago.

But it will be the voters who will inevitably decide your fate. In the meantime, welcome to Wayne, Mr. President.

Toxic waste

By JOHN MCGUIRE
Region V Administrator,
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Improper storage and disposal of hazardous wastes is an especially acute problem in the Midwest as four states among the nation's top 10 waste generators are in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Region V.

Recently it has become difficult to read or listen to the news without being told about the discovery of hazardous waste dumps near a community or its water resources. Stories of the tragic Love Canal in New York alerted us to the damage such waste disposal sites can cause, but the evidence of local improper dumpings in Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, Seymour, Ind. and elsewhere in the Region further emphasizes the extent of the problem here in the Midwest.

Over the last decade, extensive national efforts have been undertaken to clean up our air and water. These were, logically, our first priorities. Now, however, we must begin to deal with the problems created by the by-products of industrial processes.

Some 50 million metric tons of potentially hazardous wastes are produced annually in the United States. By our estimates, less than 10 percent is being disposed of in an environmentally responsible manner.

Our past ignorance of the dangers of improper disposal techniques, exacerbated by the deliberate avoidance of the costs of sound waste management by some industries, presents us today with a problem which will take years to solve. Neither government nor industry can be proud of this record.

The toxic chemicals, acids, caustics, explosives, and other materials which constitute hazardous waste first appeared in significant quantities with the postwar chemical revolution.

Before World War II, most of the chemicals commonly used by industry were derived from natural materials, principally minerals and plants. Thousands of years of experience with such substances allowed mankind ample opportunity to become familiar with their dangerous side-effects and to develop ways to handle them.

By contrast, since the 1940s the chemical industry has developed an incredible number of synthetic substances never before known on this planet. Today, there are five million synthetic and natural compounds known to chemists. Of these, 45,000 — plus an equal number of pesticides — are in commercial distribution.

In many ways, these chemicals form the foundation of our modern society and affect every aspect of our lives. Our task now is to find ways to dispose of these substances that do no harm to the public or to the environment.

Disposal practices, to be environmentally sound, must prevent wastes from seeping into the ground water; from running off into surface lakes or streams; from escaping into the air via open burning, evaporation, wind erosion, or explosion; from entering the food chain and, ultimately, the bodies of human beings; and, above all, from any direct contact with humans.

Up to now, we have not taken the steps necessary to ensure these basic protections. We are the most highly industrialized society in the world. Yet no system has been institutionalized for proper disposal of our hazardous wastes.

More effort has gone into the regulation of restaurants and taxicabs than into establishing a safe network for waste disposal. All this is finally beginning to change. We have recognized the problem and developed the legal and institutional tools required to ensure the future use of safe disposal techniques.

Under the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), the United States EPA has set up a national recordkeeping system to track hazardous wastes from their points of generation to the points of final disposal. These regulations also set standards for the issuance of permits to operators of facilities that process, store, or dispose of hazardous wastes.

Operators, transporters and generators of hazardous wastes were required to notify the federal EPA on Aug. 18, 1980, that they are handling these wastes. By Nov. 19, 1980, a system will become effective that requires all wastes to be tracked.

The states may, if they choose, establish their own hazardous waste control programs. But these will have to meet requirements established by the federal EPA. Since the beginning of this year, Illinois has had its own tracking system and should be a program leader that the other states in the Region — Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin — may follow. In fact, there will not be a truly effective system until such a program is implemented nationwide.

The RCRA is the first federal law to address the problem of comprehensive management of the nation's hazardous wastes and that is a big step forward. But even it will not provide much help in solving the problems created in the past. The law concerns itself primarily with waste management of the future. It does not attempt to deal with the product of 35 years of ignorance, incompetence, and abuse in disposing of hazardous wastes.

Our best guess is that there may be as many as 50,000 disposal sites in the United States which contain hazardous wastes. Over 1,000 of these could pose threats to human health or to the environment. Since the EPA and the states stepped up their hazardous waste-site investigation programs in February, 1979, more than 600 hazardous waste dumps, spills, and storage areas have been investigated in the six states in the EPA's Region V alone. But we still have a long way to go.

It is not possible to undertake investigations of the magnitude required without the help of concerned citizens. In February of this year, we announced a program called "Seek and Find," making available toll-free telephone hotlines by which people can alert EPA to the suspected presence of dumps that might be hazardous.

The dangers signals we are asking people to look for are:

Abandoned storage drums on vacant lots, in fields, or along roads. Abandoned warehouses or factory buildings with old chemical drums inside or on the grounds.

Drums or other large containers in ditches or buried on land.

People pouring chemical-type waste onto land or into water.

Barren places in otherwise healthy areas of vegetation.

Abandoned tank trucks along roads or on vacant land.

We have already received more than 713 hotline reports, 100 of which

From the sidelines

By MONA GRIGG

I came across this piece in a file I had forgotten about called, Dumb Things I Got While Working at U of M Hospital. It was in with the Round TUITs and the ... You never heard of a Round TUIT? It's just a big round circle with the word TUIT in the middle. You give it to people whose stock answer for everything is, "I never got around to it". You're supposed to hand them the paper with the round circle with the word TUIT on it, and say, "Well, now you have one", or some such dumb thing.

But our all time favorite pass-around, the one that kept the Xerox machines smoking for days, is the one I am about to share with you. It must have been serendipity, my coming across that file in these troubled times. I'm thinking of mailing a copy to Antal Dorati, Lee Iacocca, Tom Murphy, Phil Caldwell, and maybe even to Doug Fraser, so he'll understand the reasons why ...

(From a bulletin published by the Organization and Methods Division of her Majesty's Treasury shortly after several of its members attended a concert at the Royal Festival Hall):

"For considerable periods, the four oboe players had nothing to do. The numbers should be reduced, and the work spread more evenly over the whole of the concert, thus eliminating peaks of activity."

"All the first violins were playing identical notes. This seems unnecessary duplication. The staff of this section should be drastically cut. If a large volume of sound is required, it could be obtained by means of electronic amplifier apparatus."

"Much effort was absorbed in the playing of demi-semi-quavers. This seems an excessive refinement. It is recommended that all notes should be rounded out to the nearest semi-quaver. If this is done, it would be possible to use trainees and lower-grade operatives more extensively."

"There seems to be too much repetition of some musical passages. Scores should be drastically pruned. No useful purpose is served by repeating on the horns a passage which has already been handled by the strings. It is estimated that if all redundant passages were eliminated, the whole concert time of two hours could be reduced to 20 minutes, and there would be no need for intermission."

"The conductor agrees generally with these recommendations, but expresses the opinion that there might be some falling-off in box-office receipts. In that unlikely event, it should be possible to close sections of the auditorium entirely, with a consequential saving of overhead expense — lighting, attendants, etc."

"And, if the worst came to worst, the whole thing could be abandoned, and the public could go to Albert Hall instead."

The Other Side of the Meridian

By TOM MOORADIAN
Acting Managing Editor

Swelled with frustration and anger, two delegations with separate goals on their minds sought the aid of the Press to resolve their problems.

One group, from Westland, asked the newspapers' intervention in a paving program, while the second group, from Van Buren, had come with a press release about their tour of a landfill in that township.

Both groups felt "trapped," that their elected officials refused to heed their pleas. They felt threatened by the very body and bodies they'd elected to serve them. They were resentful that government refuses to listen to the voters.

And now they wish to translate their anger into action. And, like many of Hemingway's characters, they, too, feel it's "better to die on your feet fighting, than to live on your knees."

"We told council (Westland) that the majority of the people in the district do not want, cannot afford this damned paving program," one of the representatives from Westland said. "One woman would have to dish out $13,000 for the program. Where in heavens would she get that kind of money?"

"We implored Council to listen to us, but they went right on and voted for the paving anyway. What can we do?" she asked.

"And how many times have you attended Council proceedings?" I asked her. "None," was the reply.

Then it's time to wake up, and take a good look in the mirror. We've seen and heard it all before, and we respect our citizens — but when they don't take government seriously, why should government take them seriously?

The delegation from Van Buren was also an impressive one. Because of the recent controversy over a landfill along I-94, the group (George Roberts, Tim Toohy, Rick Edwards, Ron Yurchak, and Jerry McKelney) paid a visit to the landfill owned and operated by Mike Farrantino of Wayne Disposal.

For three hours the group was guided on an inspection tour, and according to Roberts, "samples were taken of the sludge for analysis."

"The purpose of the visit was not to find fault with the operation," Roberts pointed out, "but to gain a better understanding of the problems, both from the standpoint of the operator and the citizens."

"We have been concerned with the landfill operation for over two years, and it wasn't until recently, when some human waste was spilled from a truck on the service drive, that this landfill problem became a community-wide issue."

Is it a political issue as well? Roberts is after Supervisor Patricia Cullin's job.

"My first concern is the welfare of our residents, and if it has to come down to politics, then, yes we'll use it as a political issue," he answered. "After all, the township board and supervisor are responsible for the welfare of its residents."

The group came away with some assurances, they said, from Farrantino. Farrantino promised "that the lagoons and any liquid chemicals would be gone from the landfill within 30 days and that he would hire an observer to watch the dumping operations."

Toohy pointed out that another pertinent fact came up during the dialogue — that the landfill owner "will be required to employ a qualified chemist to make on-site analysis of material to be disposed of in the landfill."

"This is mandated by Federal law," Toohy said.

I don't know who made the comment that "there are times a man can take no more," but it's a truism that life teaches.

Library group thanks Jaycees

EDITOR—The Quirk Elementary School Library Committee would like to extend their thanks to the Belleville Van Buren Jaycees.

Last year a small group of parents were asked to donate some of their time to try and bring some kind of order back to the library. It turned out to be more of a task than we had anticipated.

In attending other Library Committee meetings, we found that the Quirk Library needed more than book rearranging. In order to make the library a comfortable and relaxing atmosphere for our children, we needed some changes. It was then that the Belleville Van Buren Jaycees came to our rescue. They were not only happy to donate $450 to buy carpeting for the library, they also donated hours and days of their time and energy to see that the library was carpeted and painted.

For days, Rick Morgan and Dave LaFramboise of the Belleville Van Buren Jaycees, along with Darlene Doman and Marcy LaFramboise of the library committee, painted the walls and ceiling of the library . . . 10 gallons worth!

After the painting was completed, we arranged with the school principal, Doreen Binder, to have the school open on a Saturday. It was time to install the carpeting! Thanks again to Rick Morgan, Dave LaFramboise, Pete LaFramboise and George Abidin of the Jaycees, along with Fred Domin, Van Buren Township Trustee, the job was completed.

Our library has never looked so lovely, and without our local Jaycees it would not have happened. Thanks guys, you will never know how much your support was and is appreciated.

VB teacher is concerned

EDITOR — I am a teacher in the Van Buren Public School District. I am very concerned with the lack of bargaining progress between the teachers union and the Board of Education negotiators.

The last contract signed between the two sides was in 1978.

The teachers in the district appear to be willing to continue working under the 1978 wages as long as there is progress in the negotiation process. But I question how long this patience can prevail.

Urges vote on cable TV

EDITOR — This letter is to advise Westland Council of a group of Citizens For Responsible Cable Television and that it is our intention to effect a Referendum on newly passed City Ordinance No. 223: "An ordinance to authorize the City of Westland to construct and own a cable television system."

In relation to Ordinance No. 223, or any ancillary ordinance relative to cable television; it is our considered opinion that it would be a blatant breach of faith with the Citizens of Westland if the Council, and/or Mayor, were to permit any of following: (1)—Approve in any manner; (2)—

Sign or Subscribe in any degree, whether written or oral; (3)—Officially, or Unofficially, incur any liability, or commitment, whatsoever, Relative the Cable Television process.

With a project of this tremendous size, expense, and liability, we suggest it is right, reasonable, and fair that the Citizens have the 'Right to Vote' on whether or not the City should own a cable television system. A right which, when requested of City Council at an earlier time, was denied.

Thanks for the print

EDITOR — We, the members of the Romulus Historical Society, a non-profit corporation, would like to thank, Tom Mooradian, Editor of the Associated Newspapers, Inc., for the excellent news coverage of the activities of our Society.

It is our aim to promote community involvement in establishing pride in our Romulus heritage. We continually get feedback from interested citizens who read your papers and, as a result, contribute to our research and collection of artifacts.

The "Our Heritage" series in your papers unites the local communities in their historic endeavors.

Thanks again for your support.

Hats off to CAP

EDITOR—In last week's paper the article written about the Wayne Homecoming Festival completely overlooked the Civil Air Patrol, International Cadet Squadron 16-6 of Wayne.

This squadron marched in the parade, patrolled and helped in the display of the antique cars, ran two game booths and assisted in any emergencies which arose during the festival. At this time this squadron is one of the largest, most active squadron's in the state. Could we please be given some notice within our own city.

Sincerely,
2 Lt. MARY M. TEGGE CAP

Reflections

On mothers and daughters

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Mothers were made to embarrass teen-age daughters. When daughters get to a certain age they see nothing in their mother but embarrassing things.

"Oh, mother," they will wail as they pull away from your loving arms. "Don't be so gross."

Naturally this confuses the first time mother who still likes to hug her kid, and she begins to think that she has been a bad mother. To compound this kind of thinking, Philip Wylie once wrote a treatise on Moms and how bad they are, and everyone thought they were 'in' if they believed him.

So first time mothers sit around and lash themselves a lot. Poor Mom.

The other day I opened my daughters' room for the first time in weeks. I didn't go in because I thought I might get lost again, but I did holler, "For Gosh sakes, why don't you clean up this mess?"

"Oh, mother," she retorted. "Get off my back." And then looking up at me she said, "Is your face wrinkled! Gross."

The other evening I was getting ready to go out. I had on my makeup right down to the 'erace' for my wrinkles, when my kid came in and flopped down on the bed, looking up at me.

"Gross," she said. "Whoever taught you how to put on makeup? Look at your eyes, they look like smear pots. Ugh!"

"So, put it on me," I answered handing her the make-up.

"Oooh Motherrrrr, you don't have any eyelashes. Gross. One eye has a few, but the other! Did you pull them out? Does everyone when they get old, lose their eyelashes? Gross."

So I put on my own mascara. Yesterday I thought I'd take the kid out and find a coat for her and maybe be real nice, like taking her out to lunch. It took her two hours to get ready and then she carried along her comb and hairbrush.

We stopped at Big-Boy's which is her favorite place after McDonald's, but no one every goes to McDonalds with her mother.

"I want a coke," she said. Since I had an abundance of pennies in my purse, I dumped them out on the table and began to count them.

"Mother," she shrieked. "What are you doing counting your pennies?"

"I'm going to pay for your coke," "You can't pay for a coke with pennies!" she yelled.

"Why not?" "Mother, if you are going to pay your bill with pennies I've got to get out of here. How embarrassing. No one pays with pennies!"

She grabbed her coat and wrapped it around her. "How embarrassing!" and she flounced out.

"Guess what?" I said latter as I got in the car beside her. "They took the pennies."

"Dumb," she answered, sinking down in her seat. "I've never been so embarrassed in all of my life!"

It's like I said, mothers are made to embarrass daughters.

Food shortages

By JANET GRAY

Many Americans are aware of the possibilities of a national food shortage in the not too distant future. The summer's drought will undoubtedly reduce food supplies this winter and result in higher prices at the check out counter. Food already is less plentiful and more costly.

Some economic authorities predict increased disruption of our economic process due to unstable monetary conditions.

Our complex system of food production and distribution would be profoundly affected by such an economic breakdown. Drastic reduction in the availability of food would surely occur.

Food shortages can also happen on the local level. Natural disasters such as floods, tornadoes, severe snow storms, and earthquakes can result in rapid depletion of a community's food supply. Such disasters halt the transportation of foodstuffs and the shelves of local stores are quickly emptied with nothing coming in to restock them.

A single family unit can experience a period of food shortage. Any interruption of the family paycheck due to strikes, lay-offs, or illness could mean that the food budget is reduced. In a time when food prices are constantly increasing this situation could prove disastrous for households depending upon a regular paycheck.

Many of us have grown accustomed to taking our food supply for granted. Have you considered what you would do in the event of a food shortage in your own home or community? You can insure yourself against such calamity, and many informed persons are doing just that. The alternative is a carefully planned food storage program.

Such a storage program can provide you and your family with a healthful and inexpensive diet to sustain them during times of adversity. The basis of a sound storage program is dehydrated food.

Dehydrated food is simply fresh food which has been carefully selected and dried at low temperatures to remove all water content.

The drying process leaves most of the original nutrients intact. The dehydrated product is then vacuum sealed, giving it a shelf-life of 7-15 years depending upon the type of food and the quality of packaging.

To prepare the food for consumption, simply replace the water content. The taste, texture, and appeal of rehydrated foods is excellent.

Milk, eggs, meat, cheese, fruits, and vegetables are all satisfactorily dehydrated. Many of these products, such as powdered milk, have been in general use for many years.

In addition to their storage value, dehydrated foods are also excellent budget extenders and convenience items. In the face of rising food costs, they are a good hedge against inflation.

Sprouting seeds and grains can be stored and sprouted when needed to provide a highly nutritious fresh food supplement to the emergency diet. Vitamin and mineral supplements, if properly packaged, can also be stored.

An emergency water source and/or water treatment device should also be considered. Discuss the possibility of long term storage of any medication you require with your physician or pharmacist.

Food storage is something that each of us should consider for the continued security and well being of our families. There are many food storage programs available today. Check with your local health food store to see if they have a program which will meet your needs. Excellent, low cost, wholesale programs are also available.

Flower girl is destructive

DEAR CAROL,
As I was driving home from work tonight looking at the fall flowers, I got very angry because of an undisciplined 4-year-old child who apparently destroyed the flowers on my property.

While I am at the hospital working, she comes and breaks the stems or digs them up. It has been very frustrating.

Gardening is my joy, this child is depriving me of it.

I have talked to her parents. They are a nice couple, have a nice 13-year-old son and seem to keep their property up. They seem unable to control this child, or perhaps they are unwilling.

My anger became this letter because, when I got home tonight, she had knocked over my flowerpot of coleus (that I was planning to bring in for the winter) and ruined it. I'm at my wits end. What can I do?

Flower Lover

Dear Flower Lover,
You tell me that you talked with the child's parents but give no indication of their response. Perhaps if you talk with them again and share more openly the pain that this situation causes you, they might be more helpful.

Try not to show anger or frustration toward the child but rather pain of loss at the destruction of flowers.

If that doesn't help and you get desperate enough, you might try Small Claims Court and retrieve the financial value of the flowers.

You realize that if you take this particular course of action that you probably will not have the friendliest of neighbors. Choices and decisions are based on priorities.

By the way, the child will probably outgrow this by age 5.

DEAR CAROL,
This question has been kicking around in my mind for awhile. Sometimes I have a minor medical question, not important enough to warrant an office call. Sometime it is just curiosity.

I've tried reading those home health care books, but they are frequently out of date, dull reading and poorly written. Do you have any suggestions of easy, not boring ways to fill this gap?

Curious

Dear Curious,
Of course there is an answer. It seems that need is truly the mother of invention. There is a new service being offered in the community that may well answer your needs.

It is called Tel-Med and is a library of taped medical messages. It has a message on heart disease, first aid, cancer, the common cold and many other subjects.

For example, you can find out what poisons there are in the home that are dangerous to children, facts and fallacies of contact lenses and even the proper way to use dental floss. It's just like having a friendly doctor as a neighbor. You simply call the exchange nearest you, tell the operator what you want to know and the appropriate tape is put on for you. Keep in mind, however, that this service is not for self diagnosis or cure but simply for information.

You can get further information by calling the Ypsilanti Tel-Med exchange at 434-6120 or writing St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, P.O. Box 995, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106.

House Call

Migraine headaches

BY MAURICE B. REIZEN, M.D.
Department of Public Health

Headache is one of the most common symptoms encountered in medical practice. It is also one of the most common afflictions of mankind which can be extremely disabling.

Headache can be an indication of anxiety or an indication of an underlying disease state.

The head and neck contain many pain-sensitive structures such as the scalp, neck muscles, blood vessels, coverings of the brain called meninges, and cranial nerves. When these structures become stretched, enlarged, compressed, or inflamed, headache usually follows.

Many conditions such as tension, depression, minor head injuries, fever and infection, drugs, alcohol, low blood sugar, eye disorders, inhalation of toxic fumes, aneurysms, and brain tumors can affect these structures, subsequently leading to headache.

Headache is generally classified as vascular, muscle contraction, traction, cranial inflammation, and miscellaneous. Migraine headache is a common example of vascular headache. For a headache to be classified as migrainous, it must be episodic in nature.

Migraine headache generally has a throbbing quality, may be localized to one or both sides of the head, and is associated with nausea and vomiting, sensitivity to light and noise, fatigue, chills, and increased frequency of urination. It may last from several hours to several days. Factors such as stress, hunger, crowded places, adverse weather conditions, alcohol, and foods such as cheese, chocolate, and bananas are all reported to potentially precipitate migraine headaches.

The onset of migraine headache generally takes place during the first or second decade of life. In children, the recognition of migraine can be very difficult, especially when complicated by abnormal behavior and confusion.

Although there is no one personality type common to migraine sufferers, they have often been described as sensitive and compulsive, harboring some degree of repressed hostility. A positive family history of migraine can be obtained in as much as 65 percent of migraine sufferers; either sex can be affected.

The cause of migraine is not known. Although heredity has been implicated, genetic proof is as of yet lacking. Abnormal reactions of cranial blood vessel walls, usually secondary to chemical substance imbalance, have also been associated with migraine headaches. But the actual cause of migraine headaches still remains a mystery.

It must be emphasized that headache in migraine sufferers can also be of tension type, similar to headaches which individuals with severe anxiety and/or depression suffer from.

Headaches that persist for weeks or months continuously are not recognized as migraine headaches and should be investigated to determine cause and treatment.

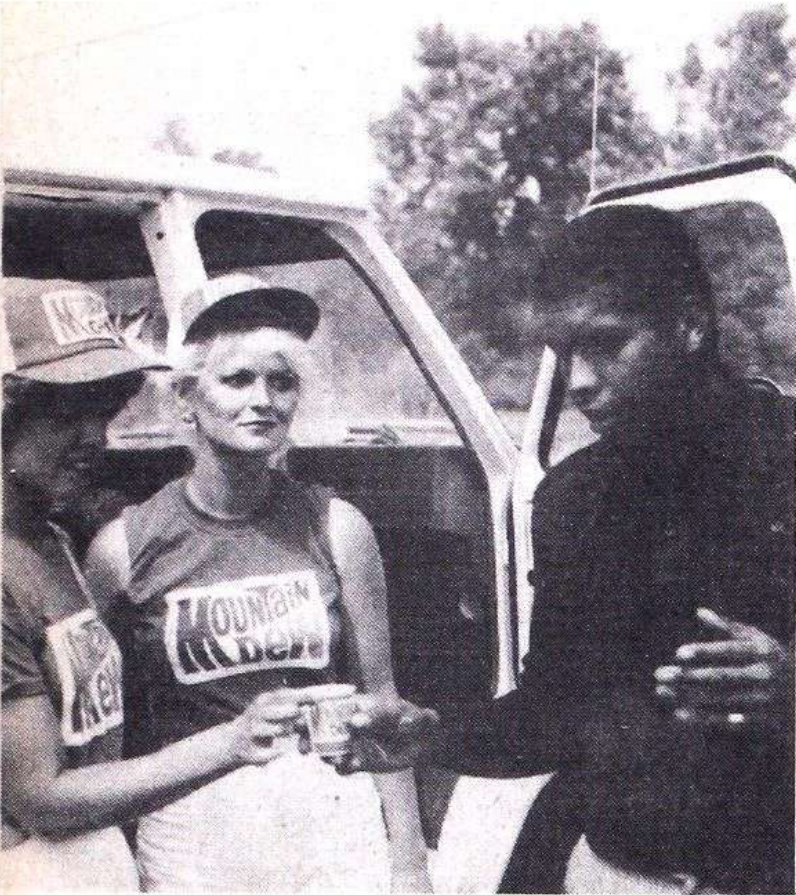

The most common type of chronic recurring headache is tension headache (muscle contraction headache). It is basically not accompanied by abnormal neurological findings.

Psychological factors are almost always a cause of this type of headache. The pain is usually steady, frequently nontrobbing, and located either on one or both sides of the head, in the front or back or both.

Intensity usually reaches maximum at the end of the day, usually after strenuous work. Careful inquiry usually uncovers sleep problems, psychosomatic disturbances, and chronic anxiety.

Headache is a very common problem; yet, it can be very difficult to manage. For migraine headaches, the physician very often prescribes drugs that stabilize blood vessel tone. Other drugs, such as sedatives, anti-depressants, tranquilizers, and steroids, have also been used to control migraine.

It must be stressed that drugs are only part of the treatment of migraine. Avoidance of precipitating factors is especially important.

Pepsi Cola's Mountain Dew girls Cathy Witt (left) and Kathy Sedowski distributed free Pepsi and Mountain Dew to children at Romulus' Fernandez Park recently for a free party given by local resident Frank Moore. The event, dubbed the "Partymakers Second Annual Summer Festival" was held over the Labor Day Weekend and drew several hundred local residents for free hot dogs, games, prizes and bands. Pepsi cola of Romulus also recently contributed to the "Get the Brush Off" cleanup campaign by distributing free pop to workers.

RESOLUTION 72-132

Motion by Oakley, supported by Pennington, that Council adopt the Warrant procedure as submitted by Frank Smythe, C.P.A. - City Auditor.

CITY OF ROMULUS - WARRANT PROCEDURE

PREPARATION

Warrant Register to be prepared by Accounting Department on computer and to include all proposed expenditures of the City of Romulus, which have been approved by an elected official or department head incurring the expenditure.

PRESENTATION

Warrant to be delivered with agenda and other material to each of the Councilmen prior to the Council Meeting at which approval will be requested. To expedite the processing of a warrant, the supporting data for all items listed should be available to the Council prior to the meeting. (The Finance Director has this information for review of discussion at any time.)

COUNCIL ACTION

The Council shall act by motion on the items included on the Warrant Register by stating the beginning and ending voucher numbers to be approved and also by stating the deleted unapproved voucher numbers. After final action on the Warrant, the Chairman or his delegate shall complete a list of vouchers deleted, if any, in the space provided on the Warrant Summary and shall attest thereto by his signature.

WARRANT ON TREASURER TO DISBURSE MONIES

Upon completion and approval of the Warrant by the Council, and after the Mayor and the Clerk have also authorized the Warrant by affixing their signatures, the Treasurer shall then be authorized to pay the obligations described.

It should be recognized that prior to the presentation of a specific warrant, the Council has previously approved the expenditure of funds such as amounts to be paid to City Boards and Commission, bonded indebtedness and other contractual expenditures. Upon approval of the Mayor and Clerk, the Treasurer may disburse monies in payment of amounts previously approved by the Council, however, without exception these amounts should be included on the succeeding warrant register presented to the Council.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Stewart, Pennington, Oakley, Edwards, Bizek, Block. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

CITY OF ROMULUS

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE ROMULUS CITY COUNCIL HELD SEPTEMBER 2, 1980

CIVIL SERVICE TASK FORCE

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Mayor Pro Tem Banks.

Attendance at Roll Call:

Present: Raspberry, Cantrell, Yeramian, Block, Rush, Banks

Absent: Canjo

Excused: None

Administrative Officials in Attendance: William M. Oakley, Mayor; Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk; Beverly McAnally, Treasurer

Civil Service Task Force Committee:

Rita McLennon, Leonard J. Folmar, Beverly McAnally, Vivian Armstrong, Sandra Spjut, Robert Poet, Richard Campbell, Deanna Lovenduski

1. Motion by Cantrell, supported by Rush, to accept the agenda as presented.

AGENDA

Roll Call

1. Agenda

2. Civil Service Ordinance

3. Discussion

4. Adjournment

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Banks, Cantrell, Block, Rush; Nays - None.

Motion carried.

PURPOSE: Said meeting was called for the purpose of discussing and-or finalizing the Civil Service Program as proposed, and its subsequent submittal on the November Ballot.

DISCUSSION:

Folmar: Informed the City Council of the previous meetings of the Civil Service Task Force Committee and the current status of the proposed Civil Service Ordinance. He further explained that at the last Task Force meeting committee suggested that the severability clause be reworded in a more simplified language. (Copies of the proposed ordinance were distributed among council members.)

(Yeramian Enters)

(Raspberry Enters)

Banks: Inquired about paragraph No. 2 (listing of exempt personnel) of the proposed ordinance; questioning why council's secretary had not been included as exempt from Civil Service.

Deanna: Explained that those listed as exempt in the ordinance were exempt as defined in the Charter.

Raspberry: Expressed his concerns regarding the detailed language used in the proposed Civil Service Ordinance and the subsequent fear that such language would cause the law making body of Romulus to be 'locked' into that particular language; i.e. any desire to change such language would have to first result in a change in the Charter and thereby complicate matters.

Rush: Asked if whether the ballot question would be 'are we going to have Civil Service as a ballot question or not.'

Raspberry: Responded that the ballot question would be 'shall the City of Romulus adopt a Civil Service Program. He continued to express the importance of not using detailed language of the proposed ordinance.

Deanna: Explained that the Task Force thought that they were support to expand the language, asking that council specify their desires.

Raspberry: Explained that the Task Force Committee did not want to submit a program whereby they would be locked into the Charter. Raspberry further expressed his concerns over the pay of the Commission (Civil Service) and said pay rates should be versatile enough to consider the possibility of numerous hours worked by the Commissioners.

Folmar: Responded that the Task Force Committee did not consider pay for the Commissioners.

Raspberry: Felt that the pay scale should be made a part of the proposal to the people.

Yeramian: Asked if the Task Force Committee had checked with other communities to see how they implemented and maintained their Civil Service Program and respective Commissioners.

Folmar: Explained that the Committee did not check directly with other communities, but instead, reviewed their Ordinances, compiling this proposed ordinance on that basis.

Rush: Asked if the program was implemented would there still be Unions? Deanna: Explained that the Union would remain; further that employees would have the option to appeal to the Commission or the Union.

Rush: Also questioned the basis of the make-up of the Commission; how it was derived.

Deanna: Explained that, that too, was taken from ordinances of other communities.

Rush: Requested that each individual Committee member comment on what benefit they felt would result from adopting this program.

Raspberry: "I think this gives the employee security outside the political aspect."

Poet: I think you get a better grade of employees over a period of time, you don't get the turnover rate that you now have.

Vivian: Agreed with Councilman Raspberry.

Campbell: Felt that the ordinance would give every citizen an equal chance for jobs, and upgrade the quality of employees overall.

Deanna: Felt that the Union protects the core or bad employees, not taking under consideration the qualifications of an employee, the implementation of the Civil Service Program would give more incentive and help the good employee.

McAnally: Explained that the adoption of this program would give a stability to those employees whose jobs are affected by the political trends.

Folmar: Contended that the implementation of this program would develop a base for the Departments; its most significant effect being to provide a pay plan for non-union employees, they will know what to expect and not be subjects of a hit or miss situation like that existing presently.

Raspberry: Recommended that council accept the Task Force Committee Report for review and requested that legal opinion be obtained regarding the placing of the Civil Service question on the ballot subject to the implementation of the respective ordinance.

Rush: Asked if any limitations would be placed on the number of meetings the Civil Service Commission could hold.

Campbell: Explained that the number of meetings held by the Commission would be part of their internal affairs.

Council requested that the following amendments be implemented into the Civil Service Ordinance: Section IVC - "Members of the Civil Service Commission shall receive compensation for their service on a per diem basis as shall be determined by the Romulus City Council". The deletion of the aforementioned sentence contained within Section IVA, as follows: "A member of the Commission may be removed by the City Council only for cause."

Resolution 80-349

Motion by Raspberry, supported by Block, that the language of the Civil Service Program, as herein discussed, be drafted by the City Clerk and the City Attorney for the ballot proposal question. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Block, Yeramian, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried.

Motion by Block, supported by Raspberry, to adjourn. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Block, Yeramian, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried.

Respectfully submitted,
Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk for the City of Romulus do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true copy of the minutes of the special meeting of the Romulus City Council held September 2, 1980.

Silverman's

Omelettes are featured at this expanding eatery

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

Bob Silverman is a man on the move these days. Up at 4 a.m., to work by 6 a.m. and home often as late as 11 p.m., his schedule would tire anyone.

But you won't hear any complaints from this workaholic. His Silverman's Restaurants are the hottest dining businesses around, featuring four locations opened within the past three years and another couple on the drawing board.

Locally there's the original Silverman's at 34410 Ford Road (east of Wayne Road) in Westland and a new site at 36480 Plymouth Road in Livonia. Other outlets are located in Novi and Southfield.

What's all the fuss about? Omelettes. Fifty of them, made with three eggs and served with hash browns or American fries, toast, biscuits or bagel. And filled with just about everything imaginable... cheese, mushrooms, nacho chips, hot dog, roast beef, ham, sausage, oriental vegetables, corned beef, guacamole, green pepper and on and on.

"Having this amount of omelettes available is different for Michigan," explained Silverman, who honed his culinary skills in California. "I believe we were the first restaurant here to offer such variety of omelettes."

Such egg delicacies, which range in price from $3.75 to $5.95, tell only a part of the Silverman's success story. With a menu of more than 300 selections, the diner can afford to be choosy.

For the hearty appetite the all-you-can-eat daily specials are appropriate — veal parmigiana or fish and chips on Mondays; fried clams and chips or liver and onions, Tuesdays; spaghetti or fried chicken, Wednesdays; liver and onions, Thursdays; fish and chips, Fridays, and fried chicken, Saturdays and Sundays. Each special costs $3.50. Breakfast specials are featured until 11 a.m. weekdays with nearly all the combination plates priced at under $2, including coffee.

If a burger is what you want, the selections range from ham and swiss, Hawaiian and turkey burgers to the Russian, Italian and even the reuben burgers. Nearly 30 types of burgers are available at prices ranging from $1.75 to $3.75 (deluxe plates come with American fries and salad or cole slaw for an additional $1).

The deli board rates a second look with such appealing entrees as Bob's Favorite, a combination of corned beef and chopped liver; Karen's Kreation, pastrami or corned beef with cole slaw and Russian dressing; David's Delight, turkey, swiss cheese and cole slaw on rye with Russian dressing, and other notables such as the Yenta, Sean's Special, China Peak, New Yorker and High Sierra.

A complete soup, salad and dinner menu adds up to a total dining experience, Silverman's style.

"I love to take food and do different things with it," declared Silverman. "I like to give people what they want so that if they want to diet they can or if they want something prepared a special way, it can be done. We're very liberal in allowing for substitutions or special orders."

"And I see to it that very large portions are served," added the 39-year-old entrepreneur.

Silverman, who also owns a share of three "Nibble Nook" Restaurants in his native California, said he plans to bring the "California-style" decor to his restaurants. A remodeling project is underway at the Westland outlet that will highlight blond wood, plenty of white paint and earth tone colors throughout.

Managed by Gary Pegg, the Westland Silverman's features a seating capacity of 80 and is open from 7 a.m. until 11 p.m. daily. The newest facility in Livonia also seats 80 and remains open from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Bob Silverman has every right to be smiling these days since his Silverman's Restaurants continue to grow, due to a popular variety of delicacies including some 50 varieties of omelettes. The Silverman's Restaurant in Westland is located at 34410 Ford Road. Photo by Lothar Konietzko.

Lloyd, McEnroe tell their stories

By STEVE O'LEARY
Special to Playtime

McENROE: A rage for Perfection by Richard Evans in cooperation with John McEnroe
Simon & Schuster; $12.95

CHRISIE: My Own Story by Chris Evert Lloyd with Neil Amdur
Simon & Schuster; $14.95

These two books, which chronicle the lives of tennis' reigning King and Queens, are as different as are the personalities involved.

On the one hand we have Chris Evert Lloyd, who burst onto the international scene as a budding sixteen-year-old who dazzled the sportsworld with her consistency, and played a large part in popularizing the two-handed backhand which is as common as yellow tennis balls today. Shy and sweet, Chris was called "The Ice Maiden" for her machine-like play as she ruled Women's tennis with an iron hand for eight years.

And then there's John McEnroe, the enfant terrible of tennis. With perhaps the greatest amount of raw talent ever to display itself in the game of tennis, Mac has garnished more headlines for his behavior problems than for his tennis, which is truly a shame.

Richard Evans' book, written in cooperation with McEnroe, is an inside view of the man who has stood the tennis world on its proverbial ear for the last few years. And it's not a press release type of thing either — far from it — although it is written with the sympathetic ear of one who knows the full story, not just the tainted words that appear in print, as only an old-time tennis journalist could.

But even Superbrat, as the snobbish British press dubbed him at Wimbledon, knows he's no angel. As Evans points out, John is a perfectionist who gives himself no quarter. He expects to play the perfect match every time out, which is an impossible task to begin with, and more often than not it's himself he verbally abuses on the court.

"I know I don't help myself arguing with umpires. I just can't help myself," he states. Indeed, McEnroe not only expects perfection from himself out there, but also from the line judges and officials, who are bound to come under his wrath at least once during a given match. True, there is no reason to have 60-year-old people calling lines where a ball hit at over 100 miles per hour often lands within an inch of a line over forty feet from where they are, but even John knows he sometimes goes too far. "You know," he says, "maybe what I need is to be disqualified once to settle me down and make me think twice before exploding. But I just can't help myself. You could say I have a temper. I'm Irish, you know."

Often overlooked by the sensationalistic press is the fact that John McEnroe has never, never turned down a place on America's Davis Cup Team, unlike other top pros, such as Jimmy Connors, who only plays for his country when he feels like it. Given a choice between a guaranteed $50,000 for an exhibition match and zero dollars for representing his country, John never even thinks twice.

Many rather notorious events are explained in the book including John's no-show at the Wimbledon victory ball the year he beat Bjorn Borg in the finals. What wasn't widely publicized was the fact that the invitation was withdrawn earlier in the day when the senior Mr. McEnroe was informed that no, the family could not bring a guest, and if John and his immediate family weren't present precisely by the chosen hour-on-the-hour, then they were not welcome at all. Is it any wonder he flew home and went to a Bruce Springsteen concert?

In the long run, "McENROE: A Rage For Perfection," is a fine addition to any tennis fan's bookshelf, and an absolute must for fans of the poor little rich kid from New York.

On the other hand, "CHRISIE: My Own Story," is not only a fine tennis book, but a very good autobiography that will be good reading enjoyment for anyone.

Her first appearance at Forest Hills in 1971 was widely heralded, because at the tender age of 16 she was a child prodigy. "Because," she states, "kids were the exception rather than the rule in 1971." These days, of course, it's not uncommon for 14 and 15 year olds to be tennis professionals, earning hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, as Kathy Rinaldi and Andrea Jaeger do.

Chris' well-publicized romances with Jimmy Connors, Jack Ford, and Burt Reynolds are documented, but not too in-depth, if you take my meaning. After all, "My Own Story" has one class woman as it's author and subject.

It's good to see books like these appearing on the market, because tennis needs a booster shot since it's enormous popularity of the 70's has leveled off a bit. And what better proponents than these two Champions?

Pam and Bryce Anderson of Canton take a stroll through the educational "Then and Now" Center at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Six units, supplied with tapes and a written guide, provide a look at life 100 years ago as conceived and built by museum volunteers and local craftsmen. 'West Side Story' coming to Wayne High auditorium

The tragic fate of two lovers will be told on stage as the Spotlight Players present their version of "West Side Story" Friday and Saturday and Oct. 15 and 16 at the Wayne Memorial High School auditorium.

Written in 1957, "West Side Story" revolves around the lives of Tony, an American, and Maria, a Puerto Rican, whose families and friends are consumed by prejudice and hatred for one another. It is considered a modern update of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

"West Side Story could have been a story about an Italian Catholic boy and a Jewish girl (as it was originally intended)," noted director Gail Susan Mack of Canton. "It could have been written in the 60's about a black-white relationship. Or it could have been written today about an ill-fated love between an Israeli boy and a Palestinian girl."

Karen Wilcox of Canton and John

Eastman of Livonia are cast in the lead roles. Other lead performers include Jim Baker of Westland, Mark Renfrow of Wayne and Andrea Swanson of Westland.

Production staff members include Mary Cobello, producer; Jeff James, assistant director and stage manager; Liz Potter, music director and Rich Alder, instrumentals.

Tickets for this Wayne-Westland Community Theatre effort are priced at $5 for adults and $3.50 for seniors and students and may be obtained by calling 595-6117. Curtain time for all performances is 8 p.m.

"With tenderness and compassion, (Arthur) Laurents and (Leonard) Bernstein present their subject matter to their audience," explained Mack, who has directed over 20 productions. "It serves as a reminder of the growth we, as human beings, have yet to experience when we continue to destroy others for unfounded purposes."

Glenn, Franklin on collision course

Rockets remain awesome in 4th win

Question: What has 44 legs, 1 arm and runs all over football fields?
Answer: The Rockets of Westland John Glenn.

Using those three characteristics named above, the Rockets soundly defeated the Thurston Eagles, 35-0, last Saturday afternoon as they dominated every phase of the game. For the Rockets, it was their fourth straight victory of the 1982 season and ninth in a row over the last two years.

Coach Chuck Gordon, who is tied with former coach Bob Lusk as Glenn's winningest football coach with 35 wins, said the victory was "a good win and kept us in first place."

For the first time in recent memory, Gordon started an all-junior backfield. Necessitated by a shoulder injury incurred by Todd Jennings at the Pontiac Silverdome the week before, the three juniors worked well together and led the Rockets to victory. Gordon was pleased with their play saying, "A couple juniors came through for us. Craig Thornton and Tom Forchione came through and played very well."

Craig Thornton (6-0, 163), the brother of former Glenn back Scott (now at Adrian College) performed admirably, chalking up 156 yards on 28 carries and scored 3 touchdowns.

The 156 yards is the eighth highest in school history and the fourth time in the last five games that a Glenn back has gone over the 150-yard mark for a game.

Fullback Tom Forchione (5-6, 151), the brother of the regular fullback Don, rushed for 78 yards, including 22 on his touchdown run. The other member of the junior trio, Jeff Hawley, had another great day at quarterback and continues to impress many people around the league.

Hawley threw for 83 yards, completing 7 out of 13 passes and one touchdown.

Also making starts Saturday were junior receiver John McKolay and junior punter/kicker Frank Sprinkle (5-11, 152). McKolay was blanked by the Thurston defense, but Sprinkle made his varsity debut a sparkling one by kicking all five extra points and a 44-yard punt.

Glenn started the scoring in the first quarter following a Thurston fumble deep in Eagle territory. A few plays later, Hawley found Brian Grassel on the five-yard line and Grassel took it the rest of the way for the score. With Sprinkle's conversion, Glenn led, 7-0.

By the middle of the first quarter, Thurston looked worn out as they tried to keep up with Glenn's punishing running game. Thornton and Forchione took turns softening up the line. Thornton finished the first half with 100 yards and his 3 scores. One of his scores came in the first stanza when he went over the one-yard line to make it 13-0. Again, the PAT was good and Glenn led 14-0.

Meanwhile, the defensive line was playing havoc with a gutsy but inexperienced Thurston offensive line. "Our defense has played well all season and Saturday, but we haven't been tested like we will on Friday," stated Gordon.

John Ericson, Jack Walker and Kurt Robertson all combined to put pressure on the Thurston quarterback, Eric Haney (6-2, 180, Sr.), and running backs Richard Ochmanski (5-9, 175, Sr.) and Gerald Doran (5-9, 170, Jr.). Consequently, the Eagles were held to only 16 yards on the ground for the game and never put together a sustained drive all afternoon.

The Eagles were forced to go to the air but found the going extremely rough there, also. If the Rockets weren't knocking balls out of the air as Doug Corbeil did in the first quarter on a dangerous pass down the left sideline, they were knocking them down at the line of scrimmage.

Haney completed only one pass for a total of seven (count 'em) yards. Actually, he completed two but the second one was to Rocket Dave Shroat (5-10, 172, Sr.), his first interception of the season.

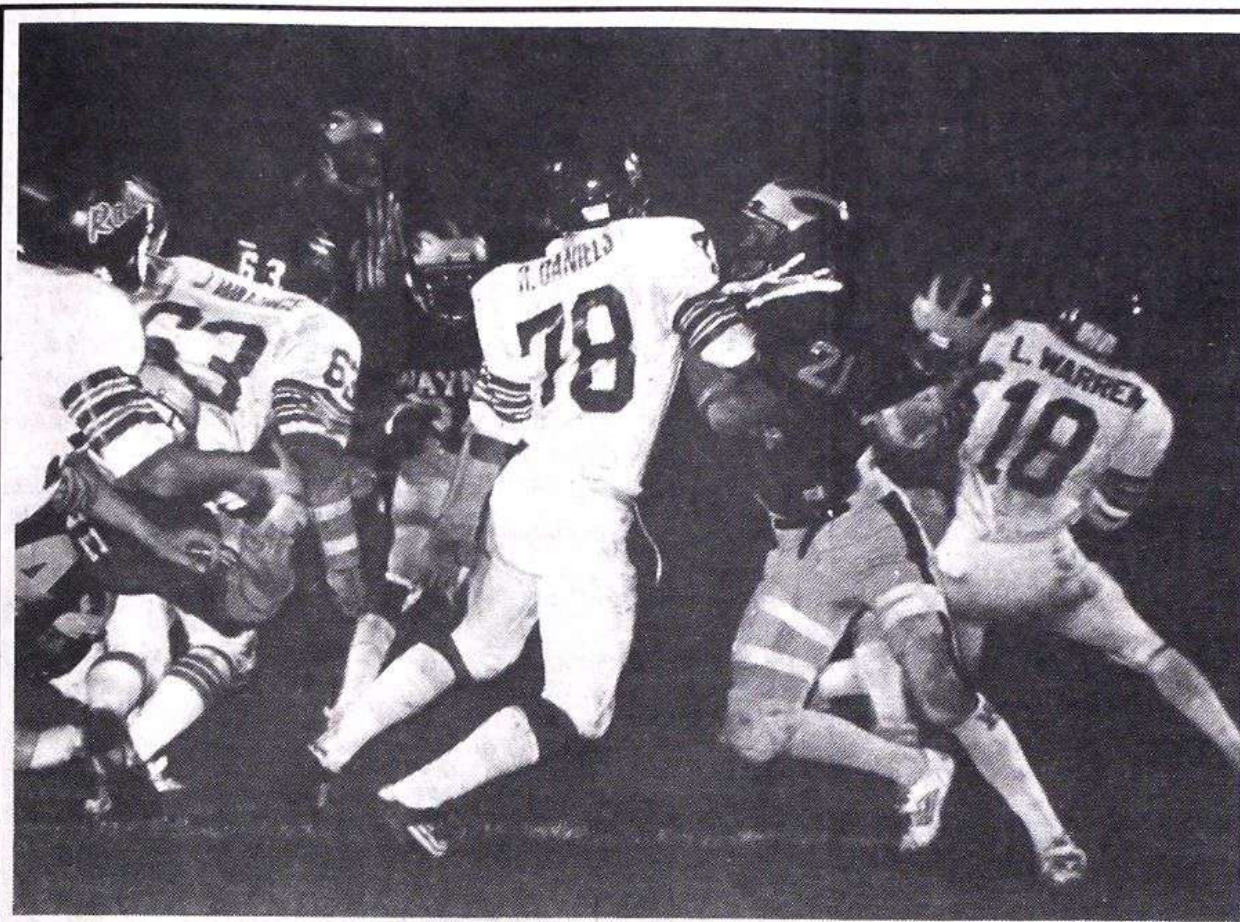

Glenn scored twice in the second quarter, both times on short runs by tailback Thornton. The Rockets left the field at halftime leading 28-0, with their thoughts shifting from the Thurston Eagles to next week's opponent, the North Farmington Raiders.

Glenn came out in the second half intent on staying on the ground as much as possible and protecting their shutout. The Rockets did score, though, when Tom Forchione raced 22 yards to paydirt for his first touchdown of the season and his varsity career.

The defense took over for the remainder of the game with the intention of protecting that shutout and not wanting to be the first team to let the Eagles score. The Eagles nearly did as they intercepted a misguided Hawley pass (his first interception of the year) and set sail for the goalline. But Hawley himself made the tackle on his own 30-yard line and the defense took over from there to preserve the whitewashing.

Glenn amassed 328 yards on offense, 245 rushing, as the offensive line continued to block well and provide ample running room for the Rockets' junior backs. They also held out the Eagles defensive line successfully, allowing Hawley all day to throw. Of the 7 passes Hawley completed on the day, he divided them up nearly equally among his receivers. Two went to Rob Bell (6-0, 141, Jr.) for 20 yards, two went to Todd Mills (6-0, 163, Sr.) for 22 yards, two went to Grassel for 30 yards and the one touchdown and one went to Craig Thornton for 11 yards. Hawley has now completed 16 out of 36 passes for 251 yards this season and 4 touchdowns.

As the Rockets left the field after the final whistle, they put Thornton out of their minds and set their thoughts on an old nemesis, North (See GLENN, Page B-4)

Paving the way

Using true grit and muscle power, Wayne Memorial's Donnie Lynn (21) opens up a hole for ball carrying Shaun Boyer (24) in Friday night's Great Lakes 8 Conference confrontation that ended in a Wayne victory. Coach Floyd Carter's Zebras will take a 2-2 (1-1 league) record to Monroe Friday night in hopes of knocking off the powerful Trojans who are ranked No. 2 in the Class A state ratings.

Romulus continues to find 'jinx' under home lights

There just may be something to this "jinx theory".

Anyway, Romulus gridders gave credence to the argument that they can't win under the home lights. Friday night the Eagles did it again as they dropped a 10-6 decision to visiting Detroit Murray Wright.

And the defeat, first year coach Norb Glover's second in four starts, kept the Eagles winless on the home field since they moved from the high school to the North Junior High gridiron. The move provided them lights and night football but that's about all.

"I believe we should have won that football game," Coach Glover lamented. "We didn't play all that bad, but we committed a couple of defensive blunders which enabled our visitors to get on the scoreboard."

Romulus had its chances and blew them.

In the first series of plays, Romulus' Terry Roche picked off a Murray Wright pass and the Eagles took over at the Detroiters' 40-yard line. Then, after Matt Percy earned 15 and 7 yards respectively on consecutive plays, the Eagles handed the ball back via a fumble.

Detroit was not that foolish to give up the ball in similar fashion the rest of the duel. Murray Wright and the Eagles staged a defensive battle until the waning minutes of the initial quarter when the visitors stuck for a 4-yard touchdown run thanks to Robert Hendricks.

Hendricks also scored the two point conversion.

Scoreless the third quarter, the Eagles came back and kept the outcome of this game in doubt when Roche, who handled the quarterbacking all of the second half for senior Matt Bossory, pitched out to Johnny Rupert who polished off a midfield advance with a 9-yard touchdown run.

Romulus tried and failed in the two-point conversion attempt.

Detroit cashed in on a punt that wound up as a two-point safety to account for the final scoring.

The Eagles also missed a golden opportunity to get on the scoreboard early in the fourth quarter when Roche found receiver Darin Grandlison opened and smacked him with what was to be a 40-yard gain. Grandlison made the fatal mistake to look over his shoulder to see where the defenders were, giving the defense the tenth of a second to catch him and nail him at the 29 yard line.

"He was gone if he didn't look back," Coach Glover noted.

Romulus received an outstanding defensive effort from Sean Perkins who had two sacks of the quarterback and also nine solos and four assists. The Hardrick brothers - Gary and Mike - made their presence known as each accounted for seven unassisted tackles and four assists.

Romulus will travel to Clarenceville Friday night to meet a team that also has had its share of troubles. The Spartans have won one of four games.

"But they can be tough on their own field," said Glover, something he wished his Eagles would soon become.

Westland's Mike Kay is on Albion roster

Albion College freshman Mike Kay of Westland is a member of the 1982 Albion College Football team. Kay plays at the guard position.

Albion, thus far into the season, has a record of 1-1 in non-league competition, following a decisive victory over the Wooster Scots by the Score of 28-15.

"Our coaching staff believes this 1982 football team has the capability of being an outstanding one," says Head Coach Frank Joranko, adding, "with hard work and determination we will have a good season."

Kay is the son of Donald and Aileen Kay, 32223 Anita, Westland.

Albion's "Briton" athletic teams compete in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA), as well as in NCAA.

Patriots make it 4 straight

In a season that thus far no problem has emerged, Livonia Franklin Coach Armand Vigna Views Westland John Glenn as "a problem".

And the veteran Patriot coach doesn't even meet the undefeated Westlanders until a week from Saturday.

"What we're going to have to do is make sure that our kids play Saturday without looking over their shoulders or looking ahead to the Glenn game," Vigna said as he prepares his minions for Saturday's 2 p.m. clash with Redford Union.

"Both of us may possibly enter next Saturday's Oct. 16 game with perfect 5-0 records," Vigna continued, "and, needless to say, that match-up would generate a lot of interest."

But Franklin must get past an up-and-coming R.U. club which ended its three-game losing streak last week by beating Garden City, while Westland John Glenn has to contend with North Farmington on the Robert field Friday night.

North offered Franklin resistance in the first 12 minutes of their Northwest Suburban battle, then the Patriots broke the scoreless deadlock with a touchdown pass from quarterback Rich Popp to Larry Patzsch, a split end who grabbed the ball and went 40 yards into the end zone.

A 26-yard pass from Popp to Rich Wood helped set up the initial TD. Wood then proceeded to kick the first of two successful point after.

North came back and drove after the ensuing kickoff to the Franklin one-yard line where the Pats stubborn defense, led by middle line-backer John Chmielewski and Jay MacInosh refused to budge.

The Livonians padded their lead to 14-0 late in the third quarter as the Popp-to-Patzsch combination clinched again, this time on a 53-yarder that put the finishing touches on a 78-yard sustained drive.

The unbeaten Patriots received an insurance TD from Randy Hurst who scored midway in the last period from 27 yards out. The score capped an 80-yard drive with Tom Lucas' 22-yard rush triggering the series.

"We had difficulty getting our offense untracked," admitted Vigna, "but I felt that both teams played a rather good game. There were few mistakes."

Hurst led the rushers with 56 yards on eight attempts while Patzsch caught three passes for a total of 108 yards. Chris Lewis accounted for two interceptions and nearly missed getting a third. The Pats also received an excellent all-around performance from tackle Joey Brobst and Jeff Cumtson.

Statistically, Franklin had a narrow edge in first downs (8-7), and rushed 128 yards on 31 attempts as compared to North's 64 yards on 31 tries. Popp was seven of 20 for 160 while North passers hit on four of 25 aeriels for 68. The Patriots were penalized three times for 21 yards while North was tagged for infractions three times. It cost them 35 yards.

'Boy-er'

Wayne came up with an array of offensive plays in the final quarter against Lincoln Park Friday night to break open a close game and post a key victory in the Great Lakes 8. One reason for that decisive win was the ball-carrying efforts of runningback Shaun Boyer (above) who led the rushing attack.

MIKE KAY

Salem destroys Churchill for 4th grid triumph

Livonia Churchill found Friday it isn't wise to turn your back on Plymouth Salem's football team. Not, at least, if you want to appear respectable.

Churchill maintained the football for 53 plays, most of the time on the field clock, 172 yards through the air, one 80-yard touchdown drive and still came out on the very short end of a 42-7 decision.

It wasn't that Churchill did much wrong, it was more a matter of what the Rocks, who are alone in first place in the Western Activities Conference Lakes Division with a 4-0 record, did right.

Each time Plymouth Salem touched the football, it scored. The Rocks even scored when they didn't touch the ball. And, for the first time this season, Salem put points on the board during the second half.

"You never are totally satisfied after a game," said Coach Tom Moshimer. "Churchill did force us into some mistakes — a bad pitch here, a lost fumble there." But even the veteran coach couldn't keep from savoring the win, not when the statistics showed his squad picked up a whopping 360 yards of real estate.

Salem didn't let its fans get seated before starting the romp. Dave Haut took the opening kickoff and ran it 81 yards into the end zone. Mark Dixon's kick, his first of four successes in six attempts, was good, and the Rocks were in command with 11 minutes still to go in the first quarter.

Two plays later Scott Jurek ripped off a Churchill pass and ran it to the 35, from where it took Salem just two plays, one of them a 26-yard touchdown scamper by Pete Steyaert, to make it a 14-0 contest after Dixon's kick. Salem took to the air for its third touchdown. Steyaert found an open Dave DeBenedet, who brought down the pass and turned the play into a 80-yard effort.

The Rocks took pity on their fans in the second quarter. They didn't score a touchdown. They did, however, score when Jurek tackled John Frasure, in the end zone for a safety. Frasure got revenge of sorts when he completed a 14-yard pass to Steve O'Hara late the fourth quarter, giving Churchill its only points.

Usually, the Rocks offense gets a breather in the second half. But Churchill wouldn't allow it. After holding Churchill of downs, the Rocks were back in action Jurek ran the ball in from the Salem 40, and, one series of downs later, ran 32 more yards to put the Rocks way out in front, 35-0.

And still Salem wasn't through. Mark Tindall gave his coach a preview of coming attractions in the fourth quarter when the junior single-caller hit Pericles Chiatales with a 24-yard strike.

If any Farmington scouts were in attendance, they certainly got an eye-ful, and the only question remaining is what the Falcons will do with their knowledge coming into Friday night's homecoming.

"We can't afford to take anyone lightly," Moshimer insists. "We're the new team in this league and everyone is out to nail us. Farmington is getting better each week, and then we've got Livonia Bentley and Walled Lake Central. We really can't let up."

Salem didn't let up until the final quarter against Churchill. The Rock defensive unit recorded five sacks, paced by Ron Calhoun, Jurek, Tom Walkley and co-captain Dave Slavin. Jurek didn't even mind not running much of offense. He carried the ball four times and picked up 107 yards, nearly one-third Salem's total. Steyaert and Tindall between them completed three passes in nine attempts, but those three passes netted the Rocks 107 yards.

Off to fast and winning start

Glenn ends Wayne swimming domination with 68-59 victory

Glenn has received outstanding performances from Robina Gow, Kris Johnston, Kasia Wilson, Shelly Silarski, Shon Pilarski, Cindy Walkuski, Chris Cabrera, Robin Fogarty.

Glenn is 3-0 thus far this season and next meet will be against Livonia Churchill at Churchill on October 12 at 7:00. They begin league competition on October 14 against Redford Union.

Meet results: Westland John Glenn 68, Wayne Memorial 59

Farmington. North is responsible for the last Glenn loss and will be facing a team out for revenge. But North, despite their 1-3 overall record, "through the years has been a tremendous rival" for the Rocks. Gordon also said, "Records don't mean anything and North will come after us. We'll have to be prepared."

Oh yes, one more question. When was the last time a Glenn team lost to Thurston?

The Junior Varsity Rockets defeated Thurston's JV's, 42-0, last Thursday as Dave Husak ran for 112 yards and 3 touchdowns and Dana Jones, Jeff Meixner, and Matt Johnson scored 1 apiece.

Inkster native earns 'Player of Week' honor

Sophomore tailback Mike Johnson of Inkster earned Adrian College special team's player of the week honors in the Bulldogs' 35-25 victory over Geneva (Pa.) College Sept. 25. Johnson was the back-bone behind Adrian's kickoff squad.

The 5-foot-10, 180-pound Cherry Hill graduate came through with a key play as he tackled a Geneva return specialist inside his 20-yard line. Johnson also is a member of the Bulldogs' kick return team and has the breakaway speed to pose a potent threat on an Adrian runback. "All year long, Mike has just done a very excellent and consistent job on the special teams," said Adrian head coach Ron Labadie.

The Bulldogs (3-0) travel for their final non-league contest against St. Norbert College (1-2) Saturday (Oct. 2). Kick-off time is 1 p.m. Central Daylight Time (2 p.m. Michigan time) at Minnam Stadium in DePere, Wisconsin. Adrian has won 20 games in its last 21 outings since 1980.

Mike, a speech-broadcasting major, is the son of Rosetta Johnson of Inkster.

'Team work' pays off in Over 30 hockey leagues

Although the season is only two weeks old, skaters in the Wayne Westland Over 30 Hockey League are "beginning to play together".

And the results showed in Little Bill's triumph over Johnson's Carbonic.

Little Bills Trophies wonits second game of the new season by skating past Johnson's Carbonic 4-3. Keith Middaugh, Terry Johnson, Dave Zajac and Bill Keskey did the damage for Little Bill's by scoring a goal apiece and picking up an assist. John Clearwood and Joel Layne received one assist.

Johnson's Carbonic got on the scoreboard as Layne Cardinal, Joe Soukup and Bob Murray found the net.

Ron Johnson Finished with two assists while Jerry Bular, Dave Fishwick, Mike O'Shea, and Mike Adamson picked up one assist.

All Sorts Sports held off a determined Etronic team to secure its first win of the season, 6-4.

Tom DiLaura got what turned out to be the winning goal while logging his first hat trick of the season along with one assist. Rick Wolkowicz tallied for one goal and received one assist. Ray Schemanske and Tim Potts rounded out the scoring. Dave Milam picked up two assists with Larry Kaifesh and Dave Cherry finishing with one apiece.

Etronic's attack was led by Ralph Tack, Jerry Robertson and Chuck Jennett with each scoring once and picking up one assist. Al Farina also tallied for one goal. Guy Moise picked up an assist on Robertson's goal.

Arnie Cox logged his first hat trick in the league and led Jake's Lounge to its second victory of the year 7-3 over Tastee Freeze. Don Middaugh contributed his share by rating the net twice and picked up one assist.

Dave Roberts and Ken Beal accounted for single tallies Dennis LaPensee finished the game with three assists, Tony Spada and Paul Mayworm picked up two assists while Dennis Wysocki and Jerry Peterson, Tom Bryans, Moe Paquette and Barry Anderson tallied for Tastee Freeze. Jim McClure picked up two assists while Tom Panackia, Rick Riede and Conrad Madaleno finished with one assist.

Family Heating skated hard and logged a 7-2 victory at the expense of Mic-Dago Pub. Jack Bockstanz tallied for two goals, Al Pulk rattled the net for one goal and two assists, Dan Thomas scored once in addition to an assist while Terry Lindsey, Bill Creekmore and Dave Jones rounded out the scoring with a goal apiece. Ron Wojewski finished with three assists, Chuck Heebsh and George Klempert assisted with two goals. Rob Dittmar and Dale Fawkes accounted for Mic-Dago's two goals as Norm Beasley, Paul Cramer and Pat Brown received one assist.

Futurama and Brock Builders skated to the seasons first tie 3-3. Ken Murray rattled the net for two goals for Futurama while Don Middaugh accounted for one tally. Claud Johnston picked up two assists as John McFaddin and Jim O'Gozaly finished with one assist.

Dave Frankling tallied twice for Brock

Builders with Ed Harmon securing the final goal. Ken Howe received two assists with Bob Wood and Bill Brown picking up one assist.

Sunday, October 10: Jake's Lounge will skate against Brock Builders at 6 p.m.; Family Heating and Futurama will meet at 7:15 p.m.; Etronic will host Tastee Freeze at 8:30 p.m.; Little Bills Trophies plays Mic-Dago Pub at 9:45 p.m. and Johnson's Carbonic will take the ice to skate against All Sorts Sports at 11 p.m.

Belleville captures Wayne cross country invitational

A perfect day provided Belleville harriers with an opportunity to prove they are one of the best teams in the area when it comes to cross country.

Coach Dave Medley's Tigers ran away with the prestigious Wayne Memorial Invitational championship as the champs garnered 35 points to outdistance the second place, Wayne, which had 63 points.

In third place was Cherry Hill (100), followed by John Glenn (112), Garden City (118), Trenton (141), Taylor Truman (185), Livonia Franklin (195), Dearborn Heights Crestwood (215) and Taylor Center (267).

In dual meet action, Glenn evened its league record at 1-1 with a 24-31 over Garden City High School. The loss gave Garden City a 1-1 record in the North-West Suburban League.

Sophomore Jay Hunt was second in the meet with a time of 17:13, giving the Rockets a sweep of the first two places. Also scoring for the Rockets were sophomore Frank Shelly, 5th, with a time of 18:15, Senior Todd Stockwell, 7th, 18:21, and Junior Tony Augustinaitis, 9th, 18:45.

Garden City captured 3rd place (Anderson), 4th (Homann), 6th, (Gerrard), 8th (Pritchard), and 10th (Biegalski).

"We were pretty evenly matched squads, but Glenn had the home course advantage," said Ed Phillips, Glenn Cross Country Coach. "I was happy with the way that Gibson ran today, he went out and took charge. He has been bothered all season with a rather severe heel blister, which is finally going away, and he should hit full stride in about a week."

"Frank Shelly is beginning to see what it takes to be a varsity runner, and he is steadily improving his time and his race performance. He ran well today, and will be running better in the future, if he keeps working," Todd Stockwell ran a decent race after coming off a two week injury period. "Todd is de-initely a key to this team," said Phillips. He was projected to be the second or third man this year, but has been hampered with injuries. We need him healthy if we want a good season from this point forward."

The Rockets, finished fourth (out of 10 teams) in the annual Wayne Cross Country Invitational.

Scoring for the Rockets were Senior Captain Tom Gibson, 4th with a time of 16:23; and 23 seconds, Hunt, 6th at 16:34; Shelly, 24th at 17:49; Tony Augustinaitis, 38th at 18:22, and Sophomore Jim Lakatos, 40th at 18:35, for a team score of 112 points.

"The sophomores ran well in this meet," said Phillips. "I was pleased with the time of both Shelly and Lakatos. We had two runners out with injuries for this meet, Senior Todd Stockwell and sophomore Tod Lilla, so we were hurt in the overall team performance by their absence. Hopefully both will be ready by our next league meet Thursday against Thurston."

Unemployed?

Local 735 to offer help

Members of UAW Local 735 in Canton Township who are unemployed, are teaming up to help their less fortunate union members, who have been laid off as a result of the slump in new car sales in the nation.

The local has established an Unemployed Workers Assistance Program to help laid-off members, who have exhausted their unemployment and SUB benefits. It will offer laid-off workers who need assistance in the areas of food, clothing, medical and dental services, financial services and assistance, shelter, legal assistance and substance abuse help.

Organizers estimate that 2,500 Local 735 members are without unemployment compensation SUB benefits, medical coverage, vision care, and dental care, and that lacking a significant turn-around in the economy, that number will continue to increase.

Plans are to implement the assistance program by Nov. 1, but its success will be dependent on the help the Local receives from working union members and from the surrounding communities.

In preparation for the start of the program the Local will be holding a clothing drive Thursday and Friday, Oct. 7-8, and Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 12-13. Being sought is clothing unwanted in good condition. Area residents can drop off donations at the Local 735 Hall at 48055 Michigan Avenue.

The Local also will be holding two mental stress seminars on Oct. 15. The two one-hour sessions will be at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Local and will be open to all working and laid-off workers. The guest speaker will be Andrea Levy.

There also will be a fund-raising Jamboree to benefit the assistance program, planned for Sunday, Oct. 31. The jamboree will be held at the local from 1 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Look out Red Wings

Youngsters 5 through 8 years of age can learn the fundamentals of hockey in a beginner's Mite program offered this season by the Westland Hockey Association. The program will train the novice players in such areas as basic skating techniques, team play, the game of hockey, interteam activities, puck handling and goal tending. This is a first for the hockey association, which holds the program at 6 p.m. Wednesdays at the Westland Multipurpose Arena. For further information contact James Somervell at 981-1867. —ANP photo.

Huron still seeks first grid victory

Like the saying goes, the light at the end of the tunnel may be a train.

And, just when New Boston Huron hoped to pick up the pieces to a winless football season, they will run right smack into big and physical Monroe Jefferson.

Coach Jamie Hinojosa's Chiefs, who fell 18-11 to Grosse Ile last week, are still looking for that elusive first win of the 1982 campaign, and Hinojosa sees Monroe as "a tough and formidable opponent."

"Even if we were 100 percent healthy I would expect a strong battle," the sophomore coach said, "but we're minus some key performers, so the rest of the team is going to have to carry more than its share."

Monroe knocked off Flat Rock 33-13 last week and will bring a 3-1 record into town. The chiefs are winless in four starts.

If there is something that the young Huron mentor can smile about it's the performance of Bob Stackpoole who is developing into one of the best receivers in the area. Stackpoole nabbed seven passes from quarterback A. J. Richardson in Friday's game for a total of 143 of the team's 174 yards.

Richardson attempted 21 passes and clicked on nine of them and the Chiefs appear to be going more-and-more to the aerial paths and have left the ground game behind.

"We're going to live or die with our passing game," Hinojosa explained. Grosse Ile put six-points on the scoreboard early in the first quarter and the Chiefs got three of those points back in the closing seconds of that frame. With two minutes left A.J. booted a 35-yard field goal to close the gap, 6-3.

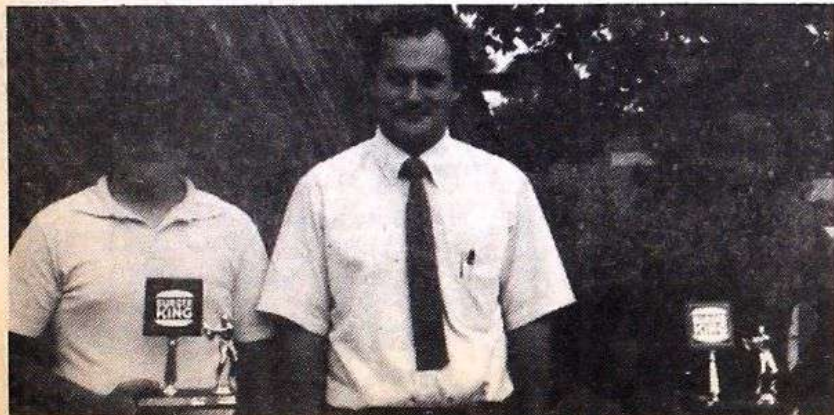

But the Islanders replied with two unanswered touchdowns in the third quarter that sealed Huron's fate.

The Chiefs scored their lone TD late in the fourth quarter when A.J. put together a 60-yard drive with the help of Stackpoole's receptions and a fluke play gave the losers their score. An A.J. handoff to Jeff Hinojosa popped from his mitts back into the quarterback's hands. A.J. raced into the endzone from the 4-yard line.

Huron elected to go for the two-point conversion and Danny Zigler successfully sprinted over the goal line for the final points of the game.

What set up that TD was another fluke play. A.J. fired a pass intended for Stackpoole but the ball was deflected by a Islander. The deflected pigskin wound up in Stackpoole's hands, and the receiver got to the four-yard line before he was nailed.

Golf champs

More than 100 junior golfers from the area recently took part in the annual Westland Parks and Recreation-Burger King sponsored golf tournament. And when the putts and drives were over, Kevin Payne (above photo) reigned as the divisional champ in the 15-16 age group. Runner-up was Tony Combs, who shot a 40, four strokes back of the winner. Pictured with the champs in all three photos is Steve Polsinelli, franchise owner of the Burger King Restaurant in Westland. In the photo immediately below are the winner - Dean Kobane and runner-up, Craig Yuhus of the 13-14 age group. The bottom photo features Matt Dodge, who shot a 37, and Chip Hall, who also carded a 40, leaders in the 11-12 age group. Angela Uanni was the top golfer in the girls' division. She finished with a 50.

Rogers looking good

Former Wayne Memorial running back Rick Rogers is earning his niche as A University of Michigan griddier as the 6-2, 200-pound sophomore from Inkster distinguished himself against Indiana.

Rogers plays behind starter Lawrence Ricks as tailback. He helped the Wolverines post a 24-10 victory over the Hoosiers, carrying the ball 12 times for 66 yards for a 5.5 yards per carry average.

Michigan's second leading ground-gainer with 142 yards in four games, Rogers also ran back two kickoffs against Indiana for 43 yards, giving up a 22.7 yards per runback average for three returns this season.

Van Buren wants you 'to dance'

Van Buren Township's Recreation Department wants you to come dancing.

The department has organized a "You Should Be Dancing" class, and the dancing will be to the sounds of the "Big Band Era".

You might not be Fred Astaire or Ginger Rogers, but you will find yourself

"swinging" into the "fox trot" and "waltzing" across most any open floor!

While you are dancing across the floor, glide right across the border to dancing Latin American.

You don't have to be Latino to dance the "rumba", just willing to have some fun and add a bit of international flavor to your dancing.

Learning the basic steps like the rumba and cha-cha by bringing your two feet and a smile!

The Latin American and Ballroom Dance classes will begin on Monday (Oct. 18) at the Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Road. The classes will be instructed by Terry Babenko and sponsored by the Van Buren Township Recreation Department. Ballroom meets Mondays, 7:30 - 8:30 p.m. and Latin American dance meets Mondays, 8:30 until 9:30 p.m.

The cost is $30 per couple. Singles are welcomed at $25 for the eight week period. For further information, please contact the Recreation Department at 699-2001.

Also, on Oct. 19 the recreation department will start the first class of Jishukan - Ryu Jujitsu. The class runs for a seven week period from 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. at Van Buren Township Hall. "What is Jishukan - Ryu Jujitsu?" It's a Japanese art that was originated by Dr. Shuko Sugita, who is the grand master of the art.

The head of Jishukan - Ryu Jujitsu in the United States is the "Honorable Shihon Ping" who lives in the Ypsilanti area and will be the instructor for the course.

Series help solve problems

Wayne County residents can gain helpful information about ways to cope with various types of problems through the new Learning for Living Center, being offered by Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County, A Torch Drive Agency.

Participants will be

"We are highly fortunate to have someone of Shihon Pings' capabilities and national ranking instructing for us," said Mark Rairick, Van Buren Township Parks & Recreation Director.

Jishukan - Ryu Jujitsu is a combination of a number of other martial arts including: Judi, Kempo, Aikido, Jo-Jitsu, Jeute and Kendo.

The program costs $30 per student for seven sessions. For further information and registration, telephone the Van Buren Township Recreation Department at 699-2001.

The sessions will be held at various Family Service district offices located throughout Wayne County and fee is based on ability to pay. call 833-3733.

Belleville postmaster unveils special stamp

"Discover stamp Collecting-The Hobby of a Lifetime" is the theme of the second annual National Stamp Collecting Month, set for October 1-31.

Postmaster Patrick J. Tobin, of Belleville, said today the area will have special observances to recognize the nationwide program.

"The fall observance will include issuance of a special souvenir card, unusual post office lobby displays and a number of new philatelic items especially designed to attract newcomers to the hobby," Postmaster Tobin added.

"Millions of Americans recognize that stamp collecting generates increased knowledge of geography, biography, history and science. Children who engage in this hobby have a good time acquiring new or used stamps, and the hobby stimulates their intellectual growth. Teachers tell us that boys and girls frequently use their stamp collecting information in preparing and presenting class projects, especially American history, current events and science."

The Postal Service

is sponsoring the month-long observance in cooperation with the Council of Philatelic Organizations (COPU) which includes over 200 national, regional and local organizations involved in all aspects of stamp collecting.

Local post offices will have on display many of this year's program support materials that graphically demonstrate how stamps help sometimes dry educational subjects like old world explorers, black heritage and space achievement come alive and become easier to learn in the classroom.

"An adult who introduces a youngster to the hobby is giving that child a lifetime gift," Postmaster Tobin said, "Because stamp collecting does not depend on age, stamina or the weather."

"Many families treasure stamp collections, work on them together, and pass them along as family heirlooms from generation to generation. In an age when all too many of us spend our leisure time solely as spectators, stamp collecting is a hobby in which everyone can participate. That's the message the Postal Service wants to get across in October during National Stamp Collecting Month," postmaster Tobin concluded.

Sgt. Thompson in West Germany

Army Sgt. David L. Thompson, son of Lester G. Thompson of 6757 Belleville, and Judith C. Romero of Ault, Colo., is one of more than 100,000 U.S. soldiers and airmen participating in the U.S. Army RE-FORGER, or return of forces to Germany, and the U.S. Air Force Crested Cap exercises in Europe.

U.S. service members in Europe, as well as those from the United States, join their NATO partners in ground exercises centering on central West Germany east of the Rhine River.

The joint exercises are designed to demonstrate U.S. capabilities to reinforce Europe with NATO-committed ground and air units in a crisis situation.

Thompson is a shop foreman with the 1st Armored Division in Ansbach, West Germany.

His wife, Arlene, is the daughter of Margaret Sanchez of Windsor, Colo.

Airman Carol A. Noeyack, daughter of Gertrude H. Noeyack of 6660 Niagara, Romulus, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force administrative specialist course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Graduates of the six-week course learned how to prepare Air Force correspondence and reports, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Noeyack will now serve at Grisom Air Force Base, Ind., with the 305th Civil Engineering Squadron.

82-353

5A. Motion by Bergeron, supported by Baumann, to adopt the following resolution in support of abolishing Wayne County Road Commission:

Resolution 82-353

WHEREAS: the people of Wayne County have recently adopted a charter which calls for the election of a chief executive officer, and that charter was developed pursuant to the county charter act, P.A. 293 of 1966, as amended; and

WHEREAS: that charter contemplates the streamlining and improvement in the operation of county government.

WHEREAS: the people of Wayne County by the passage of their charter are given a unique opportunity to exercise judgement for restricting the county government which they could not have foreseen when the county was first established; and

WHEREAS: experience has shown that the county organization created under P.A. 293 (1966), generated a dangerously autonomous road commission that lacks the accountability which allows our local governmental system to function so well; and

WHEREAS: This autonomy has caused the road commission to lose contact with the needs of the local communities, despite the sincere efforts of its staff; and

WHEREAS: this loss of contact has lead to an undesirable lack of responsiveness and rigidity in the structure as a whole; and the most accepted modern thinking on the operation of local government is to eliminate cost ineffective of unnecessary layers of bureaucracy, and in order to streamline government operations in order to achieve the greatest good for the greatest number of taxpayers; and

WHEREAS: the extant process for operating county roads is a too heavy and at times cumbersome structure which inserted an unnecessary level of bureaucratic decision making; and

WHEREAS: it is important for the county executive to possess such authority in order for duplication of administrative functions to be eliminated and a truly accountable county government to be created.

BE IT RESOLVED THAT: The City of Romulus supports the efforts of Sheriff William Lucas to abolish the Wayne County Road Commission.

FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED: That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to our State Representative Mahalak and to our Senator William Faust.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Banks, Block, Baumann, Bergeron, Lewkowicz, Raspberry. Nays - Lambert. Motion carried.
